UNDER THE GILDED DOME.

City Solicitor Slocum and City Clerk Grant spoke in favor of the bill of this city to abolish deputy election officers, before the Election Laws Committee, and there was no opposition. The permissive feature of the bill ought to be in its favor. This morning the bill to improve the condition of Charles river between Waltham and Upper Falls is heard, and our officials will do their best to impress the committee with the urgency of the situation.

Two important reports have been made this week which are of interest to Newton. The majority of the commission which failed to favor compulsory electrification for the railroad suburbs, is a disappointment to residents here. It was favored by Railroad Commissioner Bishop of this city and his associates, but they were in the minority. The report will probably cause considerable discussion, but compulsory electrification is evidently for the future. The report in favor of allowing the Boston Elevated Company to hold stock in other street railway companies, will, if passed, serve to unify the two systems in this vicinity, and give thru service to Boston. The failure of the railroads to electrify and the consolidation of the street railway companies will probably increase the street railway travel enormously.

Practical Politics, recently mentioned the Gas and Electric Light Commission stating that General Schaff had become a "clever quiescent," that Barker was a "clerical member" while Weed (ex-Mayor Weed of this city) "does the heavy working parts."

Representative White of Newton participated in two debates the first of the week, opposing the Governor's request that he be allowed to employ experts in examining the department estimates of appropriations, and opposing the appropriation for the steamer "Lexington" of the Harbor Commission. Mr. White was in the minority in both cases, but that fact doesn't bother "Tom."

RIDING THE BUZZARD.

The Ricebird Uses His Bulky Enemy as an Aeroplane.

People generally associate size and brute strength with victory, especially among the lower animals. Many times, however, this is far from being the case, especially in the bird kingdom. Among the rice birds of the Carolinas there abound at some seasons of the year tiny ricebirds, birds so small that it takes two dozen for a good meal, though bones and all are eaten.

The great buzzard is found circling over the flats at all seasons. He dreads the time for the ricebird to come, for he is then nearly pestered to death. It is a common sight to see one of these little birds fly up to a buzzard and, after dodging this way and that round the awkward bulk, finally alight well forward between the buzzard's wings on the back. Here the tiny passenger grabs a few feathers in his beak and holds on for grim life. After enjoying a ride for as long as he desires the little fellow hops off and is gone before Mr. Buzzard is well aware of it.

The peculiar part of the whole thing is that apparently the only purpose the ricebird has in getting on the back of the buzzard is to take a free ride. It puzzles every one who chances to see the little drama to find any other reason, yet the fact remains that it is a frequent occurrence, and the little birds seem to enjoy it immensely.—New York Tribune.

INDIAN DEATH CUSTOMS.

Graves of the Hopi and the Hogen of the Navajos.

The Hopi Indian believes that the souls of all deceased adults go to the Grand canyon. When a man dies a grave is dug. The nearest relative of the deceased carries the body to the grave, places it in a sitting posture facing the Grand canyon, erects a long pole between the legs, locks the dead man's fingers around it and fills the grave. To the top of the pole, protruding above the ground, he ties one end of a string and leads the other end in the direction of the Grand canyon. At the end of four days it is believed the soul leaves the body, climbs the pole and with the string to guide it goes to its eternal home in the canyon.

The Navajos, on the contrary, are very superstitious about handling dead bodies. They believe that the evil spirit that kills the person hovers around the hogan, as they call their lodge, awaiting other victims, and a hogan in which a death occurs is never occupied again. Navajo hogans are always built with the entrance facing the east. When a death occurs in one of them an opening is invariably made in the north side. Therefore when one sees a hogan with the north side knocked out he may be certain some one has died in it.—Dillon Wallace in Outing.

Antiquity of the Dog.

It is impossible to say when dogs were first domesticated, but some of the earliest traces are found on Egyptian monuments, with figures of dogs, somewhat of the greyhound type, which date back to at least 3500 B. C. Even in those remote days the dog was highly esteemed. Coming down a little later, we read that Ulysses 3,000 years ago was recognized by his dog Argus after his swineherd had failed to do so.

Plutarch speaks of Alcibiades, who cut off the tail of his dog, and Myron, the sculptor, immortalized the animal by chiseling his image in marble. The Romans valued their dogs and kept them from the chase and also as pets. Alexander the Great owned a veteran fit to tackle a lion.

A Bibulous Goose.

Geese will live to a great age, and some very few years ago I came across a very venerable goose (male or female I cannot now say) in Westmoreland in unexpected circumstances. I was walking from Milnthorpe to Arncliffe and at Gannside found an acquaintance sitting on a seashore bench feeding a pet goose with biscuits steeped in ale. He told me that this goose had been in his family for over forty years and was partial to beer, stout and even gin.

Rev. James Inll, M. A., told of a goose in Strlingshire, Scotland, that had been killed by accident after living at the same place for "above eighty years."—London Field.

Skating on a Tennis Court.

When one is building a tennis court provision may easily be made for a rink by excavating from six inches to one foot deeper than the surrounding ground and making this depressed area as much greater than his court as his purse or surroundings will permit. Twenty-five feet in the clear outside the lines of the court will give an area of over 11,000 square feet—an ample space for a number of people to occupy without crowding. The court may be flooded by means of a hose attached to the house faucet, first saturating the ground and then when it has frozen flooding the court.—Suburban Life.

Deafness of Blue Eyed White Cats.

All white cats are not deaf, but most blue eyed white cats are. It has never been discovered why the blue eyed cats should have the tendency to deafness, but it is a fact, while there has never been a case known of a yellow eyed or green eyed white cat being deaf unless by accident.—St. Nicholas.

Duty.

Duty stands for the most part close at hand, unobscured, simple, immediate. If any man has the will to hear her voice, to him is she willing to enter and be his ready guest.—Francis Peabody.

Harry Nawn, builder of the new Cambridge Subway, said in last Sunday's Boston Herald:—

"We were assisted in hustling the work on the subway along by the use of electric power exclusively for hoisting and other applications of power. We were thus able to do away altogether with the portable engines that used to have such a prominent place in such work, and this innovation proved a benefit to the community as well as to ourselves because it created no smoke nuisance and was much cleaner generally. This use of electricity was less expensive than steam."

BRILLAT-SAVARIN.

Tribulations of the Famous French Epicure and Jurist.

Brillat-Savarin, the author of "The Physiology of Taste," was the absolute realization of the typical good liver. The French revolution confiscated his property and removed him from his office as civil judge. He fled to Switzerland and then to the United States, where he played a fiddle in a New York theater to gain a living.

His property was afterward returned to him, and he was made a counselor of the supreme court, an office he clung to successfully through changes of empire and kingdom. His "Physiology of Taste" shared the fate of many celebrated books. It was reprinted by several publishers and eventually was published at the author's expense, but without his name attached to it, as he considered the nature of the work incompatible with his judicial functions.

It was Brillat-Savarin who declared that "the discovery of a new food does more for the happiness of the human race than the discovery of a star." "Monsieur the counselor," a hostess asked him one day, "which do you prefer, burgundy or bordeaux?" "Madame," replied the judicial authority, "that is a lawsuit in which I have so much pleasure in taking the evidence that I always postpone judgment."

A LIBERTY WITH TIME.

Castelar's Interrupted Lecture in the University of Madrid.

In "Home Life in Spain" is a fine story of the University of Madrid, which once had among its professors that Senor Castelar who was for a time president of the short lived Spanish republic. But when Alfonso XII. was brought to Madrid after the fall of the republic Castelar, with his companions, was exiled.

Some years afterward an amnesty was proclaimed, and Castelar returned in triumph to Madrid to resume his office in the university. A vast gathering attended to hear his first lecture, and the greatest orator in all Spain mounted the rostrum, looked imperiously at the sea of eager faces surrounding him and began, "As I was saying yesterday" (Como decia ayer).

Between that yesterday and this day he had fought the battle of the fallen republic and had known the bitterness of years in exile. All memory of this, however poignant in the heart of Castelar, had passed from the professor of Madrid's university, and he continued his lecture at the very point at which it had been broken off.

The Sedan Chair.

The sedan chair is named after Sedan, the town where it was first used. The earliest mention of it in England occurs in 1581. Early in the following century the Duke of Buckingham caused much indignation by its use in London. People were exasperated at that nobleman employing his fellow men to take the place of horses to carry him. Prince Charles brought from Spain in 1623 three curiously wrought sedans, two of which he gave to the Duke of Buckingham. A few weeks after their introduction Massinger produced his play, "The Bondman," and in it he thus adverts to the ladies:

For their pomp and care being borne in triumph on men's shoulders.
The reference is doubtless to Buckingham's sedan, which was borne like a palanquin.—"Bygone England."

The Magnetic Pole.

The magnetic poles are not stationary. The northern one is slowly moving westward along the seventieth parallel and in the course of three or four hundred years will probably have encircled the geographic north pole and returned to about its present location. Of course the southern magnetic pole follows a corresponding course about the geographic south pole. In such cities in the United States as Omaha, Sioux City, Topeka, Galveston, etc., the compass needle would point about in the direction of the north star and the north pole that Commander Perry reached. This geographic pole is about 1,500 miles north of the magnetic pole, toward which the needles of all compasses point.—St. Nicholas.

Earliest Use of Mineral Ink.

In ancient times India ink, made from lampblack and glue, was used for writing on papyrus, but inspection of the earliest vellum or parchment MSS. shows that iron gall inks were introduced not later than the ninth century. The reason for the change was that, although a carbon ink is more permanent, it has no penetrating power and can be sponged from the vellum, whereas the iron ink bites into the fibers and resists the destructive action of both air and light.

Age and Youth.

W. D. Howells said of old age at one of his Sunday afternoons: "Age is modesty than youth. I've often noticed that when I tell a mother that her daughter is the image of what she was herself at nineteen the mother is delighted, but the daughter looks startled."

GETTING EXACT TIME.

A Very Simple Matter, According to This Man's Idea.

There is nothing like having one timepiece to correct the mistakes of another. Those people who keep a clock in every room of the house will no doubt be glad to learn of the expedient adopted by an old colored janitor in an office building in Chicago. One day a man whose office was under this janitor's charge asked him if he had the exact time. "Just a moment, sir," he said and pulled out a battered silver watch from a vest pocket, looked at it, put it back and then took a pencil out of another pocket and jotted down something on the back of an envelope.

Next he produced a second silver watch from his trousers pocket, looked at it and began to figure out something on the paper. By and by he said: "When you asked, sir, it were just twenty-seven minutes past 3—that's exact."

"Much obliged," said the other, who had been fingering his watch nervously. "But will you please tell me what you were doing all that arithmetic for?"

"Why, you see," said the old man, "this watch that I carry in my vest is a mighty good watch, only it gains ten minutes every day. And this one is a mighty good one, too, but it loses ten minutes every day. So I just look at them both and then strike an average. You'd be surprised, sir, to see what a simple matter it is."—Exchange.

THRASHING SERVANTS.

Domestic Life in England in the Time of Henry VIII.

In that remarkably minute chronicle of domestic life in England in the time of Henry VIII, Tusser's "Five Hundred Points of Good Husbandry," the learned and pious author seems to take it for granted that the only way of dealing with maid-servants is to thrash them unmercifully.

He tells us in his inimitable doggerel that "a maid must be forced to be cleanly" or she is to be "made to cry creak." Mistresses are advised "to go about with a holly wand in their hand, although they may not always have occasion to use it, and to pay home when they fight"—that is to say, thrash—"but not to be always chiding." As regards the laundry, the domestic serfs are "warned to take heed when they wash or run in the lath and to wash well, wring well and beat well, so that if any lack beating it will be themselves."

As for the unhappy Clee, the dairy-maid, she is to cry "crenk"—that is to say, to be thrashed—if her cheese is "hoven" or puffed up, and if the cheese be tough Clee is to have "a crash." If the cheese be spotted Clee is to be amended by the bays, and if it be too full of whey the wretched dairymaid is to have "a dressing." Finally, if any maggots are found in the cheese, "mistress is to be Clee by and by."

An Artist's Joke.

Holman Hunt, who began life as a clerk to an auctioneer and estate agent, was constantly drawing portraits when he should have been drawing up leases, and in his chosen profession he was never slow to seize the flying moment. The windows in his room were made of ground glass, and as he had little to do he spent much of his time in drawing flies upon its roughened surface. A blot of ink sufficed for the body and some delicate pencil strokes for the wings, and at a distance the deception was perfect. Day by day the number increased, and one morning his employer came in, stopped before the window and exclaimed: "I can't make out how it is. Every day that I come into this room there seem to be more and more flies." And, taking out his handkerchief, he attempted to brush them away.

Patchwork.

The idea that patchwork had its origin in America is not founded on fact. A thousand years before the Christian era a queen of Egypt went down the Nile to her last resting place under a wonderful canopy of skins that were dyed and pieced together in a mosaic pattern. Years before this work had reached perfection and acquired a definite place among the arts. Then, too, patchwork quilts were made in England in the eighteenth century, as witness the lines written by Cowper to a Mrs. King upon receipt of "a kind present of a patchwork quilt of her own making."—Woman's Home Companion.

A Mighty Man.

Topham, the prince of English strong men, had knots of muscles where the armlets are in the ordinary man. He could take a bar of iron one and one-half inches in diameter and five feet long, place the middle of it over the back of his neck and then force the ends forward until they met before his face. On one occasion he called upon a village blacksmith and made of him an everlasting enemy by picking up a number of horseshoes and snapping them in two as easily as if they had been pine sticks.

A Bite and a Pack.

His Wife—This paper tells of a woman who suffered two weeks from the effects of a mosquito bite. Her Husband—That's nothing. I know a man who has suffered for years from the effects of a henpeck.—Chicago News.

Your Vocation.

It is well for a man to respect his own vocation, whatever it is, and to think himself bound to uphold it and to claim for it the respect it deserves.—Charles Dickens.

THEATRES

Hollis Street Theatre—At the Hollis Street Theatre, for a two weeks' engagement, beginning Monday, February 6th, Charles Frohman will present John Drew in "Smith," in which Mr. Drew has made one of his most brilliant hits of recent years. It affords Mr. Drew a character in which he has achieved a personal success of the most emphatic kind, although the role is quite different from what the playgoer public is in the habit of characterizing as "a John Drew part." While "Smith" is the title of the play, the principal character is Thomas Freeman, a returned colonial, an active, healthy, breezy farmer from Rhodesia. After eight years of pioneering he re-visits London. Roughing it has made a man of him, and he is in search of a wife. His soul revolting at the shallowness of the smart set, he falls in love with "Smith" who is the parlor maid in his sister's household. Mr. Drew will give Wednesday and Saturday matinees during his engagement at the Hollis.

Park Theatre—William H. Uncle "Billy," everybody calls him—Crane has come to town in a brand new George Ade comedy. He's at the Park Theatre and if you want a good hearty laugh and a nice little thrill, too, that's the place to go to get it. He appears in "U. S. Minister Bedloe." It tells a story about a dear old man, who has always been content to be a political boss in a little up-state town somewhere, suddenly gets appointed U. S. Minister to one of those small republics down south where they are always having revolutions. It's all told in Mr. Ade's best style, too, with lots of new and most expressive slang in the dialog. And Mr. Crane—well, he's right in his element. He has a splendid company, too. There's dear old Mrs. Whiffen as the Minister's wife, and pretty Millicent

WOMEN'S CLUBS NEWS

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt.

The Club Editor is indebted to the Massachusetts State Conservation chairman for notes upon the New England Conference. The chairman spoke at the conference upon "The Relation of Children's Gardens to Conservation." She is just issuing through her committee a handbook on conservation, which is intended for the use of clubs in studying this subject. It will be ready for the Conservation Conference which will be held in Boston on February 16th.

LEGISLATIVE CONFERENCE

By courtesy of the New England Women's Club a Legislative Conference will be held at Chauncey Hall Building, Copley Square, Boston, Saturday, February 11, at 2:15 P. M. The bills to be considered will be those endorsed by the Federation at its mid-winter meeting. All members of the Federation are cordially invited to attend.

The Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. will meet with Miss Adelaide Webster of Chester street, on Monday afternoon, February 6, at 2:30.

On Tuesday February 1, Miss Miriam Kimball will give a talk upon "The Evolution of Dancing," before the Newtonville Women's Club and will illustrate it with dances.

The Auburndale Review Club will meet with Mrs. William A. Knowlton of Hancock street on Tuesday morning.

Hon. Allen Treadway, president of the Massachusetts Senate, will address the Social Science Club on February 8, on "The Panama Canal." Guests may be invited for 10:45.

Mr. Herbert W. Gleason will give an illustrated lecture upon "The Canadian Rockies," before the Newton Centre Woman's Club on Thursday, February 9.

The members of the Waban Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. Herbert O. Stetson of Pine Ridge road on Monday afternoon, January 30. After a business meeting and instrumental music by Miss Helen Patterson, an interesting and instructive paper was read by Mrs. Alfred C. Turner, giving an historical outline of Spain. Tea was served and a social hour enjoyed.

Stevenson's short stories and fables was the subject of the afternoon at the Monday Club of Newton Highlands on January 30. One in Scotch dialect entitled "Thrawn Janet," was read by Miss Davidson. Next week the club will meet with Mrs. S. L. Eaton. Mrs. Murgin of Boston will speak upon "Industrial Conditions of Women and Children" and Miss Gertrude Melick will present the work of the school nurse.

The C. L. S. C. had a special day last Monday in which they visited one of their non-resident members, Mrs. George Quimby Hills, who has recently moved to Holliston. A paper upon "American Music" was read, which was illustrated by American songs sung by Miss Alice Reese. As it was the first time the club had seen Mrs. Hills in her new home, it is needless to say that all enjoyed a pleasant social time.

At the last regular meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club, Friday, January 27, Miss Grace Chamberlain of Cambridge, gave a dramatic recital of Paul McKie's "Mater." The inclemency of the weather did not interfere with a very large attendance of club members and guests, among whom were many of the Auburndale Review Club. The program was in charge of Mrs. Geo. W. St. Amant. A social hour followed, which closed a memorable and delightful afternoon.

A rare musical treat is anticipated at the next regular meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club which occurs Friday, Feb. 10. Mrs. Walter A. Beedle will be in charge of the program for the afternoon, which includes a trio of artists on piano, violin, and cello; a soprano soloist, and a reader. As the program has been most carefully planned, it is hoped that every club member may be present. In addition to the presidents and secretaries of neighboring clubs many guests have been invited.

On Wednesday morning, February 1st the Social Science Club held its regular monthly business meeting. Shortly after eleven o'clock Mr. Enoch C. Adams spoke to the members upon "The High School Fraternities So-Called." Mr. Adams came at the invitation of the members to talk over the matter in a friendly spirit with the thought of bringing the home and the school a little closer together, and that they might understand each other a little more thoroughly. By way of introduction, Mr. Adams recalled the time when it took nine days to get the news of the death of Washington from Washington to Boston and contrasted it with the nine seconds in which the news of the death of King Edward was flashed over the cable from England to this country. He questioned, however, whether the home life of today is any less happy and sincere than in those older days. The old days were not better days, but the new days have brought new conditions and perplexities and problems to be solved. Along with the change has come the desire for amusement. Organization is in the air and when the mother goes to her club in the daytime and the father to his at night, it is most natural that the boy should want to have his also.

Mr. Adams feels that these fraternities are a good thing in college and does not disapprove of them in secondary schools where the boys are away from home. The psychology of the group is quite another thing from that of the individual. But with boys of high school age he feels that the group should be the family group instead of merely a group of boys of the same age.

From his experience he thinks the boys are too young, that they are likely to set wrong standards. These organizations he has found tend to lower the standard of scholarship and to set up cliques, which, he claims, have no place in a democratic institution like the public school. It is a problem, he said, for both the home and school, and he urged the home to do its share in controlling it. He also wished that the young and the old could have more of their amusements together.

Mr. Adams' presentation of the subject was listened to with much interest and many remained to talk the matter over with him.

RHODE ISLAND STATE MEETING AND THE NEW ENGLAND CONFERENCE

The Rhode Island State Federation held its mid-winter meeting at Providence on January 25th with sessions both afternoon and evening followed on the next day with the New England Conference. The afternoon session of Wednesday was given up to general business and addresses on "The Betrayal of the Pure Food Law" by Miss Alice Lakey of Cranford, New Jersey, and "Federation Interests in Collegiate Education" by Mrs. Walter Stokes Irons, a former president of the Rhode Island Federation. In the evening there was a reception followed by messages from the New England Federations presented by their representative presidents, with vocal music interspersed.

On Thursday an hour was given to the consideration of Conservation, one to Pure Milk and another to Child Labor. Considerable time was consumed in comparing the laws of the various states which unfortunately crowded out some of the specific subjects assigned for discussion. At the session on Conservation the following topics were presented by the State Chairman: General Forest Conditions and Reforestation in New England, Shade Trees an Incentive to better Forest Conditions, The Dangers of Insect Pests to Forests, The Economic Value of Birds to Forestry, and The Relation of Children's Gardens to Conservation.

Mrs. Marion A. Crocker of Fitchburg National Conservation Chairman, suggested lines of work and presented a telegram to be sent to the United States Senate entreating them to pass the Weeks bill without amendment. At the business session it was voted to send the proposed telegram.

Among the questions proposed for discussion during the Pure Milk hour were: How can we convert the farmer to a willingness to support and assist the Tuberculin Test? Shall milk be graded and properly labelled, so that milk which does not reach the highest standard, but still is healthful, may be sold for a less price? How shall we educate the farmer who produces milk for home consumption only, to produce it in a sanitary manner? How shall we furnish pure milk to poor children at a moderate cost? How shall we get pure water supplies for all dairy cows, without which there can be no pure milk? How can we carry on the campaign to educate the public to demand this necessary reform?

At the business session it was voted to continue this conference for another year and that the committee consist of the six New England State Presidents with Miss George A. Bacon as chairman.

The Rhode Island women were most hospitable in all their arrangements and the guests had a most enjoyable time. No decision was made as to the place of meeting for another year.

There will be a social meeting of the Equal Franchise Association at 2 o'clock on Thursday February 9th in G. A. R. Hall, Newtonville.

The regular meeting of the N. E. L. & D. Club was held at 23 Boyd street on Tuesday morning, Jan. 24th. Parliamentary drill under direction of leader Mrs. E. M. Sherman followed by business meeting and paper on Current Events by Miss M. R. Wheeler.

Next meeting of club at same address on Feb. 14th 10:15 A. M.

MRS. WARD DEAD.

Mrs. Elizabeth Stuart Phelps Ward, the well known authoress, died at 5:15 o'clock Saturday afternoon at her home on Dudley road, Newton Centre, the cause of death being heart disease from which she has suffered for some years. She has been quite ill during the past four weeks.

She was born in Boston, Aug. 31, 1844, daughter of Rev. Austin and Elizabeth Stuart Phelps. When four years old her father moved to Andover.

Her father had a large circle of acquaintances among literary men and publishers of that day, and the precocious daughter, who began to write for the press at 13 years of age, soon found herself an intimate of the most famous authors of the day. Longfellow, Whittier and Holmes were frequent visitors to the Andover home.

Her best known book "Gates Ajar" was published when she was but 20 years of age.

Her writings met with great success from the start, and she soon became known as the author of novels, Sunday school books and short stories.

She lectured at B. U. in 1876 on "Modern Fiction," but appeared seldom on the lecture platform.

Through her engagement to write for a syndicate she first met her husband, Herbert Dickinson Ward. Their work proved so congenial and showed them in possession of so many tastes in common that their marriage followed, Oct. 20, 1888.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward first resided at Andover, afterward removing to Newton Centre, with their summer home at East Gloucester.

During the latter years of her life she took an active interest in the fight against vivisection, her voice and pen being ever ready in behalf of dumb animals.

She left an unpublished manuscript which is ready for the printer. Besides her husband, she leaves a brother, Prof. Lawrence Phelps of Atlantic and a half brother, Mr. Edward J. Phelps of Chicago.

GRAPHIC ADS BRING RETURNS

LOUIS A. COOLIDGE.
By Hon. Samuel L. Powers.

Louis A. Coolidge was a resident of the city of Washington for many years prior to his return to Massachusetts to accept the trusteeship of the United Shoe Machinery Company. During that period his acquaintance with men in the public service was probably larger than that of any other person in the country. A keen and accurate student of human character, he estimated with wonderful accuracy the value of men. He easily discerned the drift of political currents, and with prophetic vision foretold the probable outcome of political and legislative action. These traits of character, developed by mature experience, made Mr. Coolidge a leader in the newspaper fraternity at the National Capitol. The famous Gridiron Club achieved its most pronounced success during his administration as president. His nature is full of good cheer and sunshine, and his tastes are scholarly and refined. His training and experience have especially adapted him for service in official life. While in Washington his success was pre-eminent in everything which he undertook to do, and he left the Capitol with the sincere regret of his numerous warm-hearted and loyal friends.

He is certain to achieve large success in the important position which he has now accepted. He thoroughly understands finance, but what is better, he thoroughly understands men. (From Boston Republican.)

Mr. Coolidge is a brother of Mr. William H. Coolidge of Newton Centre and has many friends in this city.

The fear expressed at the meeting of the Civic Club, that there was pressing danger of compulsory annexation with Boston, unless the lesser evil of a metropolitan advisory council was endorsed, should carry little weight with the public. Persons familiar with legislative work, well know, that while it is true that the state has absolute power to make and unmake municipalities, it is unwritten law, that radical action affecting a municipality, shall be subjected to a referendum of the people interested. Indeed, the whole of modern legislation is to refer more and more matters to the people for action, and with this tendency, the fear of compulsory annexation, is one of imagination. The whole question, however, is well worth careful study, and there should be ample time given its consideration, as we should not wish to make any mistake, in taking such a radical step, in limiting local government. We have a problem unlike that of New York, or of the London County Council, and, while the present system is wrong in theory and bad in practice, it should remain until the best solution is presented. A loose federation, with simply advisory powers, would, in my opinion be a farce. Any federation, to be successful, must have some real power, and authority.

The newly organized Improvement Association at Newton has considerable work cut out for it already, if it intends to tackle the problems which exist in Nonantum square. This busy center is made hideous by huge and glaring signboards, is dangerous by reason of the congestion of street cars near Jefferson street and is unsanitary, because it lacks a public convenience. The sign boards can be reached by taking the land on which they are situated, until the owners cry "enough." The street car problem requires considerable influence and persistence. The sanitary condition, which is increased through the presence of the billboards, which allow persons to screen themselves, can be remedied by the board of aldermen. While other matters may be presented to the new Association, it is doubtful if any can touch Nonantum Square in point of necessity.

TRAINING SEALS.

These Dexterous Animals Easily

Taught to Perform Tricks.

"The cardinal principle in training animals," says an animal trainer, "is not to attempt to make an animal do anything contrary to the nature of its particular species. To be successful a trainer must know enough about the habits of the animals he has under training to fit the tricks he would teach them to their natural bent."

"The seal is very easily taught. You begin with one seal, some small pieces of fish and a string. You let the seal sit on his pedestal, something he likes to do by nature; then you throw him one of the pieces of fish, and he naturally and easily catches it. Next you tie a piece of fish on the end of your string and swing it toward the seal. He catches this, too, and you keep moving away from him and swinging the fish to him from an increasing distance. Now you are ready to begin with the hat or cornucopia. You put a piece of fish in the bottom of it and toss it to the seal. The seal is dexterous by nature, and his nose, quickly detecting the fish in the tip of the cone, seeks it out. The cone catches on his snout, and he bites off the fish and tosses the cone aside. Before long he comes to associate the cone with fish, and he will catch any number of similar ones and toss them aside when he falls to find what he wants."

"Balancing the big rubber ball is based on the same principle. The ball is soaked in fishy brine and thrown to the seal. He gets the odor and tries his best to get into the ball and find what he is after. This results in his balancing the ball on his nose, a feat which his supple neck and his natural feeding habits are all adapted, and then he gets his piece of fish as a prize."—New York World.

BIBLES IN THE WORLD.

The Scandinavian Eddas the Most Recent of the Seven.

The world has seven Bibles. They are the Koran of the Mohammedans, the Eddas of the Scandinavians, the Tripitaka of the Buddhists, the Five Kings of the Chinese, the Three Vedas of the Hindus, the Zendavesta and the Scriptures of the Christians.

The Koran is not older than the seventh century of our era. It is a compound of quotations from the Old and New Testaments, the Talmud and the gospel of St. Barnabas. The Eddas of the Scandinavians were published in the eleventh century and are the most recent of these seven Bibles. The Buddhists' Tripitaka contain sublime morals and pure inspirations. Their author lived and died in the seventh century before Christ.

The sacred writings of the Chinese are called the Five Kings, "king" meaning web of cloth or the warp that keeps the threads in their places. They contain the choicest sayings of the best ages on the ethical and political duties of life. These sayings cannot be traced to a period higher than the eleventh century B. C. The Three Vedas are the most ancient books of the Hindus, and it is the opinion of great scholars that they are older than the eleventh century B. C.

The Zendavesta of the Persians is the grandest of all the sacred books next to the Bible. Zoroaster, whose sayings it contains, was born in the twelfth century B. C.—New York Herald.

History in Toys.

The history of the world is crystallized in the children's toys. Each great war leaves soldiers in the nursery cupboard dressed correctly to a strap and button. This has always been so. As each successive age in the world's history has gone by the weapons of that age have passed to the hands of the boys as toys. There are in our great museums miniature crossbows, spears and shields. Toy armor as finely inlaid and engraved as any real accoutrements is occasionally to be seen, and old prints show the boys playing with such figures. Even the children of the French revolution had their toy guillotines.—Collier's.

The Dollar.

There was a time when dollars were minted in England. In March, 1707, the mint issued stamped Spanish dollars worth 4s. 6d., but they were called in seven months later. It was from the Spanish coin that America got the idea of her mighty dollar, but the name was made in Germany. At least "thaler," of which "dollar" is a corruption, was. The original thaler was the silver guilder, coined in 1518 by order of Count Sollich from the silver of Joachimsthal, in Bohemia, and known at first as the "Joachimsthaler." Thus the name means etymologically "of the valley."—London Chronicle.

An Obliging Doctor.

"Doctor, I've tried everything and I can't get to sleep," complained the voice at the other end of the telephone. "Can't you manage to do something for me?"

"Yes," said the doctor kindly. "Just hold the wire and I'll sing you a lullaby."—Success Magazine.

Just Rebuks.

Billy—What would you do if I should kiss you? Milly—I'd slap your face. Billy—Then I won't. Milly—You coward!—Philadelphia Record.

Cutting.

"Miss Keenly has an awfully sharp tongue, hasn't she?"

"I should say so! She's cut most of her friends off her list with it."

Goodness does not more certainly make men happy than happiness makes them good.—Lauder.

"RAY'S REMEDY" for Stomach and Liver trouble. I suffered for years with this disease, spent hundreds of dollars, but found no relief, and finally, was obliged to give up a good position. My weight was reduced to 125 pounds. I took a friend's advice and consulted a physician, then connected with the Mass. Gen. Hospital, and in four weeks I was cured. This was several years ago. I have none of the trouble, yet, and weigh 185 pounds. This prescription has cured many of my acquaintances as they can testify. This is a true and reliable advertisement, and we know that it will pay you to get their testimony. Send self addressed envelope and get information that will make life look pleasant to you.

Story of Harriman's First Purchase of a Railroad.

One morning in the early eighties Harriman walked into his office and without any previous warning announced the purchase of his first railroad.

"Where'd you get the money for it?" asked his partner.

"Never mind; I got it," said Harriman.

The road was the Sudus Bay and Southern, running from Lake Ontario to Stanley, N. Y. It was thirty-four miles long and owned two crippled locomotives, two passenger cars and seven freight cars.

"It isn't even a real good streak of rust," said a man who looked over it for him.

Harriman pulled out his map. He was studying railroad maps even then. "It's got the best harbor on the lake," he said. "The Pennsylvania road has got to buy it."

He started to build a big grain elevator and to improve the track. A few months later he disappeared from his office for several days and returned with a check for $200,000. He had sold his road to the Pennsylvania railroad.

"They had to have it," he said. "They saw it as soon as I showed it to them."

"But I saw it first," he added.—McClure's Magazine.

THE SOUP PLATE.

A Seventeenth Century Cookbook Tells Why It Was Invented.

A valet of Louis XIV. published a cookbook in 1653 in which he gives as follows the reason for the invention of the hollow soup plate:

The plates of the guests will be hollow in order that they may help themselves to as much soup as they may want without being obliged to take it spoonful by spoonful because of the disgust they may have for one another on seeing the spoon go from the mouth to the tureen.

Quests, it will be seen, used their own spoons to fill their plates, the large spoon to be used for serving the soup not being invented till some time later.

Yet even a hundred years after the invention of the soup plate (1749) a work on civility advised that all the dishes should be so placed on the table that every one could reach them with his spoon and that if the soup was served in a dish (tureen) every one should help himself with his own spoon without seeming to be in a hurry.

A work on manners that appeared just before the French revolution deemed it best to advise its readers that it was impolite to pass the spoon back and forth between the mouth and the tureen.

Difficult Horseback Seat.

There are no better horsemen in the world than the cavalry officers of the Italian army, yet even among them there are very few who could perform the feat achieved by one of them. To run an ordinary foot race is easy enough, but to run at full speed for several hundred yards holding in one hand a spoon on which rests an egg and to reach the goal without dropping the egg is a feat which must be practiced carefully a long time before it can be performed successfully, and as a result there are not many who can be sure of accomplishing it whenever they try. Great, therefore, was the surprise when an Italian officer mounted on horseback performed this difficult feat. Moreover, he selected a course in which there were two or three high fences, and these he cleared at full gallop without losing the egg.

Time For Stillness.
Mrs. MacLachlan was kind to her American boarder, but she did not propose to allow her to overstep the limits of a boarder's privileges, and she made it very clear. One Sunday the boarder returning from a walk found the windows of her room, which she had left wide open, tightly closed.

"Oh, Mrs. MacLachlan, I don't like my room to get stuffy," she said when she went downstairs again. "I like plenty of fresh air."

"Your room will not get stuffy in one day," said her landlady firmly. "I was never over custom, miss, to have fresh air rooshin' about the house on the Sabbath."

Too Strong.

"My boy tells me you discharged him," said the late office boy's mother. "You advertised for a strong boy, and I certainly thought he was strong enough."

"Madam," replied the merchant, "he was too strong. He broke all the rules of the office and some of the furniture in the two days he was with us."

His Fishing Trips.

"Pa, where do you go fishing?"
"My son, I never go fishing nowadays."

"Well, Mr. Snarler said last night you were always throwing a sprat to catch a mackerel."

Curious Incident That Brought the Savages to Terms.

The ambassador who would protect his country's rights must exercise tact and call into use the deepest learning. And, after all, his plans may be frustrated or unexpectedly furthered by some happening entirely beyond his control. In a biography of Sir Robert Hart, Juliet Bredon instances a treaty without parallel as a case of good luck.

During one of those terrible storms which periodically sweep the shores of Formosa an American vessel was wrecked and the crew eaten by the aborigines. The nearest American consul thereupon journeyed inland to the savage territory in order to make terms with the cannibals for future emergencies.

Unfortunately the chiefs refused to listen and would have nothing to do with the agreement prepared for their signature.

The consul was irritated by their obstinacy. He had a bad temper and a glass eye, and when he lost the first second annoyed him. Under great stress of excitement he occasionally slipped the eye out for a moment, rubbed it violently on his coat sleeve, then as rapidly replaced it. This he did there in the council hut, utterly forgetful of his audience and before a soul could say the Formosan equivalent of "Jack Robinson."

The chiefs paled, stiffened, shuddered with fright. One with more presence of mind than his fellows called for a pen.

"Yes, quick, a pen!" the word passed from mouth to mouth. No more obstinacy, no more hesitation; all of them clamored to sign, willing, even eager, to yield to any demand that a man gifted with the supernatural power of taking out his eye and replacing it at pleasure might make.

FORCE OF LIGHTNING.

An Ordinary Stroke Is About Equal to Fifty Thousand Horsepower.

Frequently surprise is expressed at the effect of a stroke of lightning which splinters a large tree or wrecks a tall chimney, but if the enormous power developed by an ordinary stroke of lightning is taken into consideration the wonder will be that the effect is so small.

Scientists estimate that an "ordinary" stroke of lightning is of 50,000 horsepower. That is force sufficient to drive the largest battleship ever built at top speed. The lightning stroke, however, travels at a speed of 186,000 miles per second. We think we see a flash of lightning, but as a matter of fact what we see is only the memory of a flash. The electrical current has been absorbed by the earth long before we are conscious of having seen the flash. A person struck by a direct flash would never see it.

The average electromotive force of a "bolt" of lightning is about 3,500,000 volts, and the current is 14,000,000 amperes. In such a "bolt" there is energy equal to 2,450,000 volts, or 3,284,182 horsepower. Some day a wizard will arise who will capture and bind a "bolt" of lightning and with it turn all the wheels of a great city.

The time required for the discharge of a "bolt" of lightning is about one twenty-thousandth of a second.—Chicago Tribune.

Nothing to Do.

The following bit, quoted from Lord Cromer by Helen Barrett Montgomery in her "Western Women in Eastern Lands," presents a picture of the monotony and deprivation of the life of the Egyptian lady that pages of statistics might fail to convey: The seclusion of women exercises a most baneful influence on eastern society. This seclusion by confining the sphere of woman's interest to a very limited horizon cramps the intellect and withers the mental development of one-half the population of Moslem countries.

An Englishwoman once asked an Egyptian lady how she passed her time.

"I sit on this sofa," she replied. "and when I am tired I cross over and sit on that."

Wit Not Appreciated.

Stubbs was feeling his way to the kitchen stove in the dark when he fell over the coal scuttle.

"Oh, John," called Mrs. Stubbs sweetly, "I know what you need. You should get what they have on battle-ships."

"What's that?" growled Stubbs as he rubbed his shins.

"Why, a range fender."

And what Stubbs said about woman's wit was plenty.—New York American.

A Crazy Spell.

The opera was "Travatore."
Though I no more may hold thee,
Yet is thy name a spell,
Sang the basso to the prima donna.
And it was. Her name was Sopronia Czechinskiewicz.—Judge's Library.

Stung!

"I would like to exchange this five dollar opera bag for a five dollar chafing dish."

"Sorry, miss, but those opera bags have been marked down to $3.08."—Washington Herald.

The Recipe.

SUDDENLY CRAZED

James Clancy of 109 River street, West Newton, became violently insane on the street Saturday morning and frightened a number of persons before he was captured by the police. He was examined by City Physician Lowe and Dr. Fisher and committed to the insane hospital at Westboro. Clancy is married and has several children.

He was employed by a number of families in West Newton as gardener and caretaker and it has been his custom to leave his home before daylight each morning to care for a number of furnaces. That morning residents on Temple street were awakened by a man who was shouting and screaming. Someone investigated and recognized him and telephoned to a livery stable to have a carriage sent to take him home. The police were also notified and the patrol wagon was sent out, with two policemen. They made a search of the streets on West Newton Hill, but could not find Clancy.

Meanwhile he had walked down to a point in front of City Hall and was talking rationally with a friend when another acquaintance, James J. Deffy of 7 Auburn street, a coachman employed at the Brae Burn Country Club, passed by. With a scream of rage Clancy sprang at him and Deffy fled. He was pursued across Washington street to Highland street, but managed to get away. The insane man then turned toward City Hall and a group of employees who had been watching from the steps hurried inside. Just then the patrol wagon came in sight and the policemen slipped up behind Clancy and caught him.

At the police station Judge Kennedy ordered him committed to the asylum at Westboro, after an examination by Dr. Lowe, the city physician and Dr. Fisher.

Mr. Clancy had been building a house for his family on River street, working on it day and night, and together with his many other employments it is thought that this is the cause of his becoming deranged.

UNUSUAL FIRE

The New York express, known as train No. 51 of the New York Central system, figured in an odd accident at Newtonville Wednesday morning when something went wrong in the firebox, causing live coals to blow back into the cab, setting the wood work on fire. The train was brought to a stop and the engineer and fireman jumped for their lives. The automobile of the fire department was called and lines of hose were run across Washington street and down over the railway embankment, the fire being put out only after the interior of the cab had been practically destroyed.

A broken stay-bolt or a weak flue was thought to have been responsible for the accident. The train left the South Station at 9:15 o'clock and made its scheduled stop at Newtonville at 9:28 o'clock. After leaving this station the train picked up speed quickly and was making good time when suddenly there was a slight explosion and the cab was filled with live coals, water and steam. As quickly as possible the train was stopped and the crew began work on the fire.

Chief Walter B. Randlett of the Newton fire department was passing on Washington street in his automobile and his attention was called to the stalled train by thick clouds of smoke that were rolling up from the burning cab. Chief Randlett called out the automobile apparatus which proved unavailing, and it was necessary to use water on the blaze. The lines of hose had to be run across the street car tracks and cars running in both directions on Washington street were blocked for nearly an hour, it being necessary for the passengers to disembark and walk around the spot to other cars that had been provided.

A local passenger train that came behind was stalled, while an inward-bound freight on track No. 3 was also held up. Other trains were switched onto the remaining tracks and were not inconvenienced. The New York train resumed its journey after a delay of about forty-five minutes.

WELL KNOWN HERE.

The death of Miss Rosa Allen of Medford on Sunday brought sadness to many friends in Newton.

The daughter of the late Joseph A. Allen, associate principal of the Allen School for many years and the principal of the Lyman School in Westboro, brought her in contact with a large number of educational people. She was herself a teacher for a few years, but as founder and president of the Hannah Adams Woman's Club in Medford, she did much for the uplift of all classes. She wrote frequently a Peace, Women's Rights and other reform subjects, as did her father.

Miss Allen was always active in all out door sports, excelling in golf, tennis, archery and skating and founded the Golf Club of Medford on the Allen Homestead.

She died at the Homestead in Medford, where she was one of the eighth generation of Allens who had lived on the estate.

She will be remembered as a bright, cheerful, active woman in all that pertained to the welfare of humanity.

THE WORLD IN BOSTON.

"The World in Boston" to be held in Mechanics Building, Boston, April 24th to May 20th, while primarily an un denominational religious project for interesting people in missions, is also arranged so as to be very instructive in giving the visitor an idea of the life in the non-Christian parts of the world. "The World in Boston" is, as the name suggests, a sort of World's Fair; here will be impersonated many classes of people in their native environments. Many of the articles which go to make the scenes more realistic have been lent by individuals interested in the affair, and are in themselves worth seeing as curios from foreign lands.

Twice a day on the large stage in the main hall is to be given the "Pageant of Darkness and Light", which is a "brilliant musical drama" showing some of the critical scenes in the missionary movement.

ALDERMEN HEAR PROTESTS AGAINST RAILWAY TRACKS AND TELEPHONES

The meeting of the board of aldermen Monday evening was enlivened by hearings on telephone poles on Court street, and a proposed street railway location on Elm road which brought forth vigorous opposition. In opposing pole locations on Court street, Mr. F. C. Perry read a long statement to the effect that these poles were unsightly, but it was apparently useless to protest as the aldermen paid but little attention to remonstrants and were probably controlled by or were afraid of the telephone company. Mr. Perry's remarks brought out some questions from the aldermen and Mr. Perry's replies created some amusement, as his speech was most positive and emphatic.

The petition for a street railway track on Elm road was favored by General Manager Sylvester who said he had made a study of the handling of the High school traffic and was impressed with the dangers of loading and unloading their cars on such a busy street as Walnut street. The track on Elm road would allow them to take care of the school traffic separate from their regular schedules and would be a great accommodation to the pupils. The Company did not care to press the matter but offered it as a convenience. The remonstrances came in thick and fast led by Mr. H. M. Berry, who represented Mr. C. M. Howell, Mr. Berry objected most strongly to the track as unsightly, dangerous to the children residing on the street; that it would make Elm road a shifting yard for cars and that cars would be kept standing there all the forenoon. Mr. Howell said he built there on account of the quiet and protested most strongly against the track.

Mr. H. E. Merritt said he had given the city four feet of front land recently to improve the street and asked why the plan called for tracks on the north side of the street. Mrs. Merritt said she had two small children and believed the street would be dangerous. She did not believe the company had very much traffic, as most of the pupils walked. Mrs. W. A. Corson and Mrs. Burgess also opposed the track. Mr. Lane said that the school committee would neither favor nor oppose the petition. Mr. Berry filed a written remonstrance and after everybody had spoken several times on the matter, the hearing was finally closed.

Mr. H. T. Lane, Rev. W. L. D. Twomey and Mr. G. H. Jackson opposed Edison poles on Omar terrace.

No one appeared on petitions for Edison poles on Laurel street, for attachments on Laurel st. Centre st and Tremont st. and on Telephone poles on Summit st. and of the Middlesex & Boston St. Ry Co. for a pole location on Walnut st.

Strong objections were made by Mr. Geo. S. Noden, Mr. Chas. A. Hahn and Mr. John T. Burns to telephone poles on Nonantum place, on account of the narrowness of the roadway, and the fact that all the residents were served by the telephone company at present. Mr. Burns said that if residents of Charlesbank road wanted telephones they should have the poles on that street and not on Nonantum place. Mr. Weeks appeared for the company. Letters were filed from J. W. Hahn and T. L. Mason in remonstrance.

No one appeared on petitions of Grace B. Bliss, Chestnut hill road and Ellen F. Curtis, Lake ave, to keep gasoline, and the petitions were granted.

Mayor Hatfield requested the appointment of a special committee to act with him on the matter of Greater Boston, and with the understanding that this committee was to report to the board, it was authorized. Later the president announced the appointment of Aldermen Blakemore, Avery, Woods, Miller, Moore, Bemis, Barker and the president as this committee.

Hearings were assigned on Feb. 20 on removal of dangerous trees as requested by the Forest Commissioner, and the request of the City Clerk for $300 for printing edition of ordinances was granted.

Mayor Hatfield, who occupied a seat beside the president, then heard the Lincoln Day proclamation of Gov. Foss read, while the spectators smiled.

Petitions of Susan M. Justice for apportionment of betterment assessments on Carver road, of B. W. Riley for an auctioneer license, and of J. E. Devlin for an additional pool table license were granted.

Petitions were also received from John T. Burns Jr for an auctioneer license, of Louis Burofski to make small loans, of Hiram G. Martin for a 6th class liquor license, and of M. O'Keefe for damages caused by falling tree.

On recommendation of committees, the Public Works committee was instructed to consider the suggestions of the mayor as to the purchase of the Froebel school, the matter of fire protection for Waban and West Newton and the proposed playground at Lower Falls, and orders were adopted for city grants of $3444, to pay $692.26 for improving heating at drill shed, $700 for bubbling drinking fountains in school houses, authorizing City Clerk to sell copies of city documents, authorizing transfer of $83.35 for equipment Technical High school, granting Edison Co. pole location on Wolcott st. attachments on Somerset road, Ash st. and Needham st. granting S. G. Steeves permit to alter building, Langley road, S. A. White building permit on Conway ave. and Ida M. Clark a Common Victualer license on Centre st. Leave to withdraw was granted P. E. Lacroix on petition for 6th class liquor license.

The order requesting the mayor and solicitor to favor legislation to improve the Charles river between Waltham and Upper Falls and to construct a bridge over the river at Commonwealth ave. came before the board on motion to reconsider filed by Alderman Blakemore on the latter legislation. The entire order was reconsidered and the matter of Weston bridge referred to a committee. When a new order to favor the Charles river legislation was presented, Alderman Murphy wanted to know why the river between Watertown and Waltham should not be improved as well. Alderman Blakemore said that this portion of the river was very unhealthy. Alderman Kalkins said that it would be possible for the Legislative committee to include this portion in the bill they reported and offered an amendment to that effect. Alderman Sullivan thought it would be hardly just to try and make the $25000 appropriated cover a much larger portion of the river than first understood. Alderman Avery favored action on the lower part of river but did not wish to endanger the present bill. President Jones called the vice president to the chair and said that the present bill was the result of action taken by the aldermen of 1910, had been recommended by the park commission and he did not believe it good judgment to endanger it now by asking for more. The order as amended however was passed, altho it was announced that the formal hearing on the bill had been held.

Alderman Towle wanted to know if the corpse of the board of survey bill had been properly introduced and when informed by the chair that the matter was still before the Public Works committee, asked that the committee be ordered to report it to the board for final action. The use of the word "ordered" evidently struck the board unfavorably and the motion was rejected, 12 to 3.

THEATRES

Boston Theatre—Wherever Julian Eltinge has appeared as star in his new comedy, with music, "The Fascinating Widow," the audience always views the fall of the curtain with keen regret that the fun of the clever character actor's offering is at an end. The plot is said to be so well defined and so adroitly developed that the attractive music with which the play is embellished is not at all essential to its success, although it must be acknowledged that the success is amplified by the tuneful score. Eltinge is famous for his feminine characterizations and those who have seen him declare there is nothing more artistic in the whole theatrical world. The clever character actor has scored heavily at the Boston Theatre and those who want to see him should avail themselves of the opportunity as his engagement is a short one. In "The Fascinating Widow" he is seen as the boy and the girl. The finish and perfection of Eltinge's art cannot be fully appreciated until he has been seen in the dual role of Hal Blake, a college boy, and Mrs. Monte, a charming widow, who fascinates everybody and makes everybody like her. The story is very interesting.

B. F. Keith's Theatre—The latest legitimate star to enter vaudeville is Maelyn Arbuckle. In his piece called "The Welch," Mr. Arbuckle has a part that suits him better than anything he has previously appeared in. It is that of "Dan Gassaway," a race track follower and sport, who has made a lot of money and is lonesome in his riches. He will head a particularly strong bill, one feature of it being B. A. Rolfe's big musical production called "The Courtiers," which is given in one of the most beautiful stage settings devised in recent years. Other features will be Burt Levy, the famous cartoonist of the New York "Morning Telegraph," "Tempest and Sunshine," two girls who will be seen here for the first time in songs; Felix Adler, the monologist; Goodrich, Murray & Gillen, the rathskeller trio; the Bloomquest Players in a comedy called "Nerve;" Wentworth, Vesta and Teddy; and the Three Livingstones.

Castle Square Theatre—The great drama of "Faust" arranged for the modern stage from Goethe's dramatic poem of that name will be given at the Castle Square next week. As staged by Mr. Craig at the Castle Square, "Faust" will be impressively spectacular. The interior of Faust's study will be shown, the garden and the church scenes will be seen, but the climax comes when the curtain rises on the summit of the Brocken with its wilderness of mountains, trees, clouds and barren rocks. Thither Mephistopheles leads Faust, and there Mephistopheles shows his command over the elements of nature as well as over mankind. To give this scene its proper effect, special stage settings will be constructed and painted for it at the Castle Square.

Colonial Theatre—Charles Frohman knew what he was about when he booked "The Dollar Princess" for an engagement at the Colonial Theatre. Mr. Frohman has time and again shown his confidence in Boston by sending here the very best that he had to offer and in return local theatregoers have always shown their appreciation by attending most liberally that which he presented. In booking "The Dollar Princess" here Mr. Frohman knew that the intelligent theatre-going class was sufficiently large to make the experiment a success both artistically and financially. "The Dollar Princess" succeeds on its own splendid merit. The performance is flawless. From the time Mr. Harold Vickers raises his baton to conduct the augmented orchestra until the fall of the last act, "The Dollar Princess" is a continual pleasure to the ear, the eye and the risibles.

NEWTON CEMETERY CORPORATION.

The fifty-sixth Annual Meeting of the Newton Cemetery Corporation was held in the Chapel at Newton Cemetery Wednesday afternoon February 1st, 1911.

The following trustees were elected: Messrs. George Hutchinson, Pres.; Warren P. Tyler, Vice-Pres.; Francis Murdock, Charles W. Ross, Frank A. Mason, Henry B. Day, George M. Fiske, Caleb F. Eddy and Wm. M. Flanders.

Officers appointed: Clerk and Auditor, George W. Ayransen; Treasurer and Superintendent, H. Wilson Ross; Assistant Supt. Nils H. Mattson.

Mr. Tyler, who has served as trustee continuously since 1865, was reappointed Chairman of the Visiting Committee.

The Treasurer's report shows a Perpetual Care Fund of $173,601.62 in addition to the Farlow Memorial Fund of $10,000. The beautiful Chapel and Conservatory given by the late John S. Farlow, and endowed by his children is an ornament to the grounds, and its increasing use for funeral services shows how much it is appreciated. During the past year $40,000 Bonds issued by the corporation in 1900 were paid and cancelled, and $20,000 4 1-2 per cent Bonds payable in ten years were issued and sold in July, 1910. There are now 1905 lot owners and 7,519 interments.

The natural beauties of the Newton Cemetery, combined with the excellent care of the grounds and lots guaranteed by the Perpetual Care Fund, have caused many of Newton's leading citizens to take an active interest in the administration of its affairs.

DEACON JOHNSON DEAD.

Mr. Thomas Johnson, one of the oldest colored residents of this city died last Friday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Amy Belle Washington, in Malden, at the age of 90 years. Mr. Johnson lived in West Newton for over forty years and was highly respected. He was instrumental in organizing the Myrtle Baptist church, and held the office of deacon until his death. For many years Mr. Johnson was janitor of the West Newton schools. He is survived by 6 daughters and seven sons.

Funeral services were held at the Myrtle Baptist church on Monday afternoon and there was a large attendance of friends. Rev. W. W. Ryan officiated assisted by Rev. J. H. Duckery. The floral tributes were many and beautiful. His fellow deacons sending a handsome sheaf of wheat and also acted as pall bearers. The burial was at the Newton Cemetery.

NEW TELEPHONE RATES

Additional Service Provided For Entire Suburban District

It will be interesting news to a good many subscribers that the telephone company is going to add to its schedule rates for one-party and two-party lines permitting unlimited service throughout the suburban district.

While the new rates serve an excellent purpose in many respects, and offer a number of distinct advantages, the fact remains that they involve an increase in cost to some telephone users.

It is easy to understand why this is so. People move from one section of Greater Boston to another, leaving behind them relatives and friends with whom they wish to keep in touch. This intimacy is maintained by telephone. Under the new schedule, many of these suburban calls would cost 10 or 15 cents, and such subscribers would be asked to pay more than they were paying before or else restrict the number of their calls.

The telephone company apparently has been carefully studying the effect of these various classes of new rates and has decided they need amendment in order to be fully satisfactory, and has voluntarily recommended to the highway commission the re-establishment of the suburban district as a whole, and two residence rates giving service throughout this district. One of these rates is $45 a year for a one-party line, and the other $30 a year for a two-party line. Under the old rates the charge for this service was $34 and $42. They say it is impracticable to try to give, over such a large territory, with more than two parties on a line, the quality of service people in this community demand; hence the limitation to one-party and two-party lines.

The letter of the company's counsel to the Massachusetts highway commission is as follows:

Boston, Feb. 2, 1911
 Massachusetts State Highway Commission,
 15 Ashburton Place, Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen: The new telephone rate and service schedule for the Boston and suburban district has now been in force about four months. Approximately 90 per cent of the telephones in the district are now either being operated under the new schedule, or have been ordered transferred to the new schedule by the subscribers. Other changes are being ordered daily, and the plan is rapidly being put into condition where it is hoped that orders can from now on be handled with less delay.

Further study and investigation during the last month and a half has convinced the company in the belief expressed to your board in December, that the new schedule offers, at equitable rates, sufficient and suitable classes of service to meet the varying legitimate requirements of all subscribers, both present and prospective—with one possible exception in the suburban district.

Although the district or zone service of the new schedule is apparently better adapted to the needs of the majority of the subscribers in the suburban district, there are, nevertheless, a very substantial number of residence subscribers there who have comparatively little local use for residence service, but who, on the other hand, have one or two suburban exchanges outside their local district which for social or family reasons they have been in the habit of calling in the past with more or less frequency. A substantial number of these subscribers, unless they curtail the use of their trans-suburban calls, will obviously have the cost of their residence service materially, and from some points of view it might seem inequitably, increased.

The officers of the company feel that there is a substantial and legitimate desire for a commuted rate for such service by those who prefer it to the district service, and accordingly have been endeavoring for some time to find the fairest solution of what is clearly no simple problem.

If a rate for such service can be found which promises to be reasonably fair not only to the company and the subscribers who elect to take such service, but to the rest of the subscribers in the territory as well, it would seem as if such a service should be added to the schedule.

Of course in a rapidly growing multi-exchange territory such as the suburbs of Boston no four-party line unlimited service, no matter how remunerative to the company, can be permanently retained in the schedule without distinct unfairness to the rest of the subscribers, and without certainly and permanently preventing throughout the entire Boston and suburban district the attainment of a reasonable standard of first class service—which, after all, is the fundamental requisite to which all other considerations should eventually give way.

This objection, of course, does not apply to one and two party line service, and while other objections are likely to develop, they seem to be outweighed by the fact that apparently unless a residence service covering the entire suburban district is added to the schedule, many subscribers will be paying an amount for their residence service seemingly disproportionate when compared with the cost of their neighbors' service, whose use is largely local.

The difficulty presents itself, however, of deciding what is a fair rate for an unlimited residence full suburban service on one and two party lines. The company's old rates for this service were $34 and $42 respectively, and we believe that these rates were reasonable and fair. The company wishes to suggest the restoration of this one and two party line service and its addition to the official schedule. We would suggest, however, that the rates for this service be reduced to $45 and $36. Whether or not these rates for this service will prove to be fair and reasonable no one can tell until they are given a trial and then tested in the light of experience. Inasmuch, however, as the entire schedule is in a way on trial we see no controlling objection to including in it two more rates on the same basis.

Accordingly, unless your honorable board sees some objection, the company would like to add to the schedule as recommended by your board a one and two party unlimited full suburban service for residence, at annual rates of $45 and $36 respectively; the two-party line to be equipped with divided ringing.

With this addition we feel that the schedule becomes, so far as can be ascertained without a trial, one well adapted to every reasonable need of the community.

Yours respectfully,
 E. K. HALL.

AN INTERESTING BOOK.

A most interesting book to persons in touch with the constantly changing conditions in educational matters, has just been issued by the Charities Publication Committee of New York, entitled, "Wider Use of the School Plant." It is written by Clarence Arthur Perry and contains the results of an inquiry into the utilization of school property after class hours by the Department of Child Hygiene of the Russell Sage Foundation. The result is a most interesting description of the plans and methods of various municipalities all over the country. Boston and Cambridge being mentioned frequently and there is one reference to the work done by the Playground and Social Service Committee of Newton Centre. Evening schools, Vacation schools, school playgrounds, public lectures and entertainments, social centres, organized athletics, games and folk dancing and the effect of social betterment thru wider use of the school plant are fully described and references given at the end of each chapter, if the student cares to follow the subject a little farther. The book is nicely bound and very fully illustrated, and sells for $1.25.

MISS HOOPER'S SUCCESS.

In a recent issue of the Lewiston Journal is an account of an interview a reporter had with Miss Eleanor Hooper of Newtonville who is making quite a name for herself as a young woman caterer. She began first to do the family marketing and some of the neighbors later requested her to order their supplies. A natural development followed. Some friend, who was going away, asked her to take charge of the house, and her excellent cooking and original ideas became known to a wider circle. A bowling club engaged her to supply refreshments at their Saturday night sessions. Then orders for afternoon teas began to come which were soon followed by larger social functions: receptions and weddings, not alone in the Newtons but the surrounding towns and cities and even to other states. Miss Hooper has the true business instinct, the art of originality, does the most of the cooking herself or has it done under her supervision and her work is always satisfactory to her growing list of patrons. Her host of friends wish her success in her occupation which is worthy of the dignified title of "Profession."

The Contest to furnish "the best" is the governing factor in the modern commercial world. We have put our efforts into the heating line and have evolved the "WINCHESTER" Steam or Hot Water Heater, the tests on which show it has no superior. It is for homes. A PLEASED AUDIENCE.

It is not often that any hall is filled for a chamber concert. But the exception was true Wednesday evening at Players Hall, West Newton. The attraction was the much heralded Flinkey Quartet. The weather was stormy, transportation facilities almost at a standstill but the attraction offered music lovers was sufficiently strong to bring out the largest audience the present subscription series of concerts has been favored with.

As to the program—this was fully discussed in last week's Graphic and given in detail. The most pleasing number, and the one which proved to be the novelty of the evening was the sonata for two violins. This was played for the first time in America Wednesday evening. It is a composition by Jean Marie Leclair, in three movements. It seems odd that after even two hundred years of seeming progress in all the arts and professions that it is necessary to go back to 1720 to find something that is really greater than almost anything we can find written today in sonata form. Yet this was the fact with this particular number for it was composed by a composer born in 1687 and who died in 1764.

The first number on the program was really the "war-horse" of the evening, the Beethoven Quartet, Opus 18. This composition is played by all of the string quartets and it is only a question of reading, ensemble and technique for the traditions are all so well known that outside of these points there is very little variance in its rendition.

The Andante Cantabile from the G major Mozart quartet was well received, coming as it did after the violin sonata, while the Scherzo from the Dohany quartet proved a good ending for a brilliant program.

The concert was under the direction of A. H. Handley.

The modification in the new telephone rates is welcome as indicating the fact that the action of the Company and the Highway Commission is not as hard and fast as first stated. There is little grievance in this city except from the fact that an arbitrary division is made, by which one section of Newton is forced to pay a higher rate than the other.
With cities like Cambridge, with nearly three times our population and Somerville, with double our population, each with but one exchange it is no more than fair that Newton should also be treated as if it had but one exchange and the rates made uniform throughout the city. A strong effort will soon be made to induce the Highway Commission to reconsider this phase of the situation.

The action of the aldermen in conferring the lower portion of the Charles river improvement with that portion between Waltham and the Upper Falls, will seriously endanger the whole project. The upper portion of the river has been considered for some time and matters are ripe for an appropriation. It is poor judgment, at this time, to give the Legislature any idea that the river improvement will some time require much larger appropriations.

The board of survey proposition is dead. Why not bury the "corpse" as Alderman Towle suggests.

The annual hockey game between the Newton high and the Arlington high school teams on the Brae-Burn rink Wednesday afternoon was the best of the season, Arlington winning, 4 to 3, in a five-minute overtime period.

Newton had a slight advantage, as the match was contested on its home rink. Furthermore, Arlington high has done most of its work on open ice, and it was not really surprising that Newton forced the game to an overtime session.

So well did Newton hold the visitors in check in the first half that it was not until the last seven minutes of play that Arlington could score, the session ending with Arlington leading 2 to 0.

Newton started the second half in whirlwind fashion and Bacon tallied a goal in the first three minutes of play.
That was rapidly followed by Baldwin's first goal, tying the score. About four minutes later Capt. Forrest Osgood of Arlington placed his team ahead when he made a difficult goal. It was nip and tuck thereafter until the last two minutes of the game, when Baldwin registered his second goal, which tied the score.

The captains agreed upon a five-minute overtime period, and after three minutes had elapsed Lowe, Arlington's player, succeeded in evading Newton's defence and scoring, thus giving his team the game, as Newton failed to tally thereafter.

In the first few minutes of the game
Capt. Charles Foote of the Newton team smashed his skates and was unable to play his usual good game, as he could not obtain another pair of shoes that fitted him.

In an exciting hockey game played at the Brae Burn country club yesterday afternoon, Brookline high defeated Newton high, 2 to 1, in the Preparatory league series.

Baldwin made the first goal early in the first period and Newton kept the lead all through the half. Murphy caged
a difficult goal near the last of the second period, thus tying the score. Neither side was able to score again and a five-minute extra period was decided upon. In the first minute of play Rowe shot the puck into the cage for the winning goal.

It was rumored about the rink that Newton would protest the game on the alleged grounds that certain ineligible players were on the Brookline team.

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt.

"Child Welfare," the general topic considered at the State Federation meeting last week, is a timely one and one that seems to be attracting more and more attention. Some years ago the subject of Child Labor was to be presented at a meeting of the National Cotton Manufacturers' Association and some of the members had come with the intention of fighting the matter bitterly.
The paper which was presented by Dr.
Talcott Williams of Philadelphia, treated the matter on such broad lines that there was nothing for them to quarrel with and those who had come to fight retreated without even so much as a skirmish. Dr. Williams claimed that the children had been regarded from entirely the wrong standpoint, that parents had considered that they should bring in revenue just as soon as they could do anything, while in reality the parents owed them a living until they were sufficiently developed to care for themselves. They had wrongly been considered as assets.

A Child Welfare Exhibit has recently been held in New York city which must have been of great interest and of much the same purport as the Boston 1915 Exhibition. It included, however, good conditions and helpful suggestions, as well as showing the sweat shop labor and unhealthy conditions. These things are all things that show which way the wind blows. May they keep blowing until the new era dawns.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning Mrs. A. S.
Twombly, one of the members, spoke of her grandfather, Capt. Robert Gray, who was the first American trader to carry the American flag around the world. Capt. Gray made one voyage in 1791 and again in 1792 he discovered
the Columbia River just ahead of Vancouver and thus saved it to the United States.

The speaker of the morning was Hon.
Allen Treadway, President of the Massachusetts Senate, and his subject "The Panama Canal." He gave what he termed a personally conducted tour to the Isthmus telling of his adventures on the way at Kingston, Colon, he said, has a beautiful harbor, but not at present suited for commerce.

The canal, he said, is fifty and one-half miles long, though the air line is but forty and one-fourth miles. High wages and the good conditions of the people have attracted men there to work and he found them in a contented state of mind. There is nothing unusual in the engineering of this canal with the exception of the electrical equipment.
Its success is assured and he predicts
that it will be completed by January, 1914, instead of 1915 as at first thought.
The cost will be $375,000,000.

Alden Ward will lecture on Current Events before the class of the Newton-ville Woman's Guild.

the State Board of Charity, will speak before the Social Science Club on "The Minor Wards of the State" at the meeting on Wednesday morning. Guests may be invited.

The regular meeting of the Ladies'
Home Circle will be held on Thursday,
Feb. 16, at 2 P. M. in G. A. R. Hall, Newtonville. A final report from the Rec. Sec. at Auburndale will be given.
Some matters of importance from the Relief committee and other items of interest will be discussed. Every member is urged to be present.

The Newton Mothers' Club held an open meeting on the evening of Feb. 6 at the Neighborhood Club to which the gentlemen were invited. A short play was presented and there were readings by Mr. E. K. Hall and music under the direction of Mrs. A. P. Carter. The evening was closed with refreshments and dancing.

Nothing daunted by the storm of blizzard proportions on Tuesday morning the Auburndale Review Club held its meeting as arranged with twenty-seven present. The consideration of the work for next year resulted in a vote to continue the study of drama. Gerhard Hauptmann's "Sunken Bell" was the play presented that morning. Those who took part were, Mrs. Strongman, Mrs. Baldwin, Mrs. Dike, Mrs. Cole,
Mrs. Wells and Mrs. Pomeroy. The special music written for the play was rendered upon the piano by Mrs. Nelson Freeman.

An Historical Sketch of American Art was given before the C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands with papers on George Towne and Elihu Vedder. Mrs.
Robert Clark was in charge of the program.

The club has been considering different charities at its meetings this year and on one afternoon the work of a school nurse was presented.

The Newton Highlands Monday Club was addressed by a Mrs. Durvea of Boston on the World's Peace Foundation and Miss Gertrude Melick spoke of the work of the School Nurse. Next week the club begins the study of Victor Hugo at the home of Mrs. Hopkins.

The Newton Ladies' Home Circle
held its annual mid-winter sale in Society hall, Auburndale, on Jan. 27th. The hall was attractively decorated by a committee of ladies under the direction of Mrs. F. W. Jones. The food table was in charge of Mrs. J. Childs, Mrs. H. W.
Crafts and Mrs. F. W. Jones. At the apron table were Mrs. C. A. Miner and Miss A. C. Chamberlain; candy, Mrs.
B. D. Childs and Mrs. G. E. Keyes; order table, Mrs. R. E. Achenbach and Mrs. C. A. Drake. All packages were wrapped by Mrs. F. Batstone. The centre of attraction was a charming table decorated with chrysanthemums and green where the president, Mrs. H. R.
Glazier, and Mrs. C. W. Sweetland dispensed coffee, cocoa and tea, assisted by Mrs. C. H. Stacey, Mrs. W. E. Thayer and Mrs. G. M. Fiske.

The friends of the Home Circle appreciating the value of its work and the excellence of the food always offered for sale have responded generously, so that the members' expectations for a liberal patronage at this time were high.
But a very inclement day brought great disappointment and a consequent small return. The members wish to thank those who placed orders in advance and those who braved the storm to attend.

The Home Circle does its work so quietly that many do not realize how much good it is doing. It is the only philanthropic society in the city which keeps its work unobtrusively assured to the community. The caring for the urgent, material needs of our worthy poor is true home missionary work and should have a wider support. The calls for help are many. The committees are evident and the Home Circle members quick to respond with both time and means, yet they sometimes become a bit disheartened because the needs are so great.

MID-WINTER MEETING OF THE MASSACHUSETTS STATE FEDERATION.

A large number of delegates assembled at Park Street Church, Boston, on February third, for the mid-winter meeting of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs and before the day was over nearly, if not quite, a thousand were in attendance. Welcome was given by Mrs. Adelaide M. Godding, president of New Hampshire's Daughters, the hostess club, to which Miss Bacon responded. After announcements of coming conferences the program of the day was taken up, the general subject being "Child Welfare."

The speaker of the morning was Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, Ph. D. of New York and his subject "The Newer World for the Child." Dr. Wise's earnest plea for the rights of the child met with hearty response from the club women and they were the more appreciative when Miss Bacon announced that his own child was then sick in a hospital and that he had requested the privilege of speaking early in the program that he might return to New York
in order to speak again in the evening.
Mrs. Nellie K. Rich then presented for the consideration of the Federation certain legislative measures. Two matters before Congress were first presented, the bill providing for the establishment of a Federal Children's Bureau and the Weeks bill. It was voted to endorse both measures and inasmuch as the vote upon the latter is to be taken in the Senate on February 15, it was also voted to send a telegram to the Senate asking that body to pass the bill without amendment.

Of the measures now before the State legislature it was voted to endorse House Bill 472 relative to forbidding the employment of night messengers
under 21 between the hours of 10 P. M. and 5 A. M. Also House Bill 1332, the Milk Bill presented by the Massachusetts Milk Consumers' Association. Also House Bill 262, which provides that articles placed in cold storage should bear date when they were consigned, in order that consumers may know just what they are eating. Another bill framed by the Spanish War Veterans Preference bill, Senate Bill 341, was duly protested against. A group of bills relative to the game laws, House Bills, 459, 619, 1307, 839, 844, 1018, was presented.
These are attempts to repeal and nullify
a law passed two years ago protecting the shore birds and one that ought not to be repealed. The Federation voted to protest against any repeal or amendment of the bill of two years ago. Just before the session closed, Massachusetts takes any action regarding matters outside her own borders except such as are before Congress but at the request of the hostess club it was voted to express to the New Hampshire legislature
the approval of the purchase of Crawford North, which matter is now being considered.

The afternoon session opened with a group of children's songs charmingly sung by Miss Bertha Westbrooke Swift. Mrs. Mary Starkweather, who was to have been the afternoon speaker, was detained from coming owing to some accident and President Eliot at very short notice accepted the Federation's invitation to take her place and speak upon the same subject, "Modern Industry and the Child." Dr. Eliot, when he rose to speak was welcomed with prolonged applause, and it was not until a hint from Mrs. Bacon that it ceased.
His address was listened to with close attention and his hearers could not but feel his kindly sympathy with all that the Federation is trying to accomplish.

THE NEWER WORLD FOR THE CHILD.

In opening his address Rabbi Wise wondered how many would have been present to discuss the welfare of the child had it been a Federation of Men's Clubs instead of a Federation of Women's Clubs. He feared none.

"Is it well with the child?" If it is, then it is well with us. This is an age for righting children's wrongs. The newer world should bring that justice to the child, which has been denied it.

The great problem of children's rights is still before us. The child should have certain rights or privileges.

In the first place it has the right to be well born. It is not a question of numbers, but that the right kind be born. The number should be as many as we can assure normal, complete, human existence. Every child should have the heritage of decent, complete, healthful life. It is not having it's rights, if it is born into the family where the father and the mother are overworked and underpaid, where the mother works up to the time the child is born and again very soon after.

The child has also the right to be well taught. And here we are coming to a new understanding of the problem of the teacher. The school must magnify the person of the teacher, if the child is to be helped to stand upon its own feet, trained to see, to hear, to think. Real education must give freedom and train the child to become a true citizen of the republic. It must also emphasize the ethical elements of life.
Governors and other officials come and go, but the teachers stay.

Another right which the child should claim is the right to play. The Genesis of the playground is the Exodus of the gang. A child can't play, however, without a playground.

The child also has the right never to be treated as a criminal. Dr. Wise then enlarged upon the work of the Juvenile courts. There are no child criminals.
Those considered as such are in reality diseased. We ought to have the right to adequate supervision. There is not at present adequate supervision. Without it, the system is useless.

There is no such thing as child labor.
When the child labors it ceases to be a child. It is reduced to a state of involuntary slavery. Over employed children and under employed men are two blots on this country's 'scutcheon.

The State should deal radically with the child. Dr. Wise predicted that the time is coming when there will be a system of pensions and bounties for the children. He advocated the State's giving money to widowed mothers that they may keep their children in their own homes, for the mother is the proper one to bring up her child, unless she is an improper mother. Orphan asylums are necessary for temporary shelters.
But the child has the first right to keep his father. In speaking of the men who perish as a result of the industrial system, he characterized tuberculosis as like war, a disease of the anti-social age, an unsocialized age. In New York 35 out of 100 women were widowed by tuberculosis in one year. Stop the sweating of workers, then you will stay the deadly march of this plague. Poisoning signs "No spitting" will not do it.

The protection of the child ought to be national, Massachusetts and New York have been pioneers. We have passed laws forbidding child labor. Yet Northeast capitalists have invested their money in the South and asked a bonus.
These capitalists have committed the "wireless" sins. The South's revenge on the North is a revenge that condemns
the children.

The State must intervene on behalf of the child. It must secure and save the child. We want vocational schools.
You are beginning to have them. We must train them to serve the highest end of the State and not educate a band of strike-breakers. Under the "new democracy" the State must safeguard the lives of its dwellers. Instead of protecting the "infant industries" we ought to protect the little infants from industry. We must save the child for its own sake. Quoting Longfellow's familiar lines he said, the Children's Hour is come, the dawn of the better and juster order for the child.

I began with the question of the Hebrew prophet, "Is it well with the child?" I close with another word from the same source, "Lay not thy hand upon the child to do him injury." Lay thine hand upon the child, ye mothers
of Massachusetts, not to do him hurt, but to give him to do him good, to bring him blessing.

MODERN INDUSTRY AND CHILD LIFE.

I accepted your invitation, said Dr.
Eliot, to speak to you this afternoon,
because I have something I want to say to the Federation of Women's Clubs. I have met with a certain criticism of my work, that instead of devoting myself to a single subject, you undertake a great variety of subjects and topics and so scatter your force. In the last eight-teen months since I resigned the presidency of Harvard University I have met with the same criticism. My reply has been that all these varied subjects were closely related to each other and all related to education, which has been my life work. And so your topics are all closely related to each other and all to some form of public education. Take conservation for example. It includes many topics and yet they are all closely related. I hope this Federation will not hesitate to consider a large number of topics. All tend to the welfare of mankind and to the promotion of democracy.

The last one hundred years has seen a profound change of the industries of the world. It has been an epoch of mechanical power widely distributed. The explosive engine in the last ten years is making a rapid revolution in industry.

Prodigious effects have been wrought
in our employment of women and children in industry. We are far behind England in the substitution of the advocated child labor have thought they were doing good to the children in giving them work. But these good people don't realize the harm they are doing.

In the cotton mill, for example, it is necessary for the quality of the goods to keep the doors and windows closed.
It is impossible to have any active ventilation. Such conditions are very evil indeed in that they stunt the child. The industry in which children are employed are all conducted in close, overheated, crowded rooms. Then their safety requires constant attention on their part. They are much more exposed to accidents than adults. Continuous attention is not natural to children and this brings an unnatural strain on every child that is thus employed.

People who have advocated child labor have said, the welfare of the family is promoted by the children working, they were enabled with the larger income to have better food, better clothing, better homes. That does not follow.
What has followed is that the children are employed instead of the parents. It isn't clear that the earnings of the family have increased by the employment of the children. It has been said that certain industries cannot be carried on without the work of the children. Any industry that cannot be carried on without children had better not be carried on at all.

Dr. Eliot then turned his attention to what has been accomplished by the National Child Labor Committee, an organization which has been at work for six years. All reforms, he said, proceed from voluntary associations of men and women.

Of the things this committee has done,
he said: It has got a first child labor
law passed in five of the United States;
in seven states a first compulsory education law passed. The fourteen year limits fits a very great majority of children. The committee has got that limit adopted in 17 states and for work in mines in 9 states.

The eight-hour day limit for children.
It has secured eleven first laws on that subject, four in the North and seven in the West, but none in the South. The prohibition of night work under sixteen years. Eighteen states have passed new laws on that subject. Proof of age demanded by law in seventeen states.
Thirteen states have passed new laws requiring certificates of physical fitness.
So much has been done in the way of protective legislation. It is easier to get a good law passed than to get it enforced. Massachusetts has led the way in the protection of its children. But very much remains to be done. There is a great field for further strenuous activity. On the whole for the time we must all be tolerably content with results. We must consecrate ourselves anew to this work, must devote ourselves to other matters which are cooperative.

A reform is needed in the system of public school instruction. The troubles are, that we can't maintain the interest of the child in the subjects taught and we can't make school residence wholesome on account of bad air and overheated rooms. The lack of interest comes in part from the physical difficulty and in part from the program.
Urgent and immediate attention should be given the program. There should be the introduction of more manual and more industrial features. Children now leave school as unskilled laborers.

The strongest motive underlying all this work is that which the Conservation Association urges, the health and strength of the people, the greatest asset of the nation and is not to be interfered with. The supreme motive is that of human love.

POP CONCERT.

If the saying that "wine flows freer than water" had never been said before last Wednesday evening at the pop concert given under the auspices of the Squash Tennis Club in Bray Hall, it could well have had its start there, because for the first part of the evening, at least, the large hall resounded with the pop of the birch beer bottles being opened, and the clear sparkling of the ginger ale vied with pink lemonade and the "Hatfield Cocktail."

The hall was artistically decorated with flags and pictures, and the booths were all draped with pink and red hunting. On the platform, which was also prettily decorated the orchestra and chorus sat over which there was a huge banner with the words "Newton Centre Squash Club" inscribed upon it. In the center of the hall a large bell was suspended from the ceiling which was filled with confetti and just before the dancing began, the bell opened and gave the hall and the ones who happened to be under it the appearance of a wedding. About nine o'clock Mayor Charles E. Hatfield came over and as he was escorted down the hall a rousing cheer was given and the words "Hatfield, first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen." The guests had attentive waiters and waitresses, who were prettily gowned, and all appeared to be doing a thriving business. At times the hall gave an appearance of the aero meet held in Squantum as there were seven balloons making ascents at various times in the evening.

A delightful concert program was given by the Kanrich Orchestra, under the direction of Albert M. Kanrich, during the evening. The following program was rendered:

March—"Harvardiana" Williams
Overture—"Le Caid" Thomas
Song—"Mr. E. E. Bullock" Fleming
Intermezzo and Barcarolle—"Offenbach" From "The Tales of Hoffman" Bullard Song—"Minstrel Chorus" Herbert
Selection—"Naughty Marietta" Herbert Popular Selection Orchestra
A Little Little Girl Fitcher
A My Hero Straus
Madame Sherry Hoschna
Id—"Softly Unawares" Monckton
Selection—"The Arcadians" Henry

H. A. Cook and Chorus.
Final—"College Medley" Orchestra
The orchestra were assisted by a large trained chorus, consisting of 1st Tenors, Messrs Bullock, Goldard, Denio, Shannon, Feruall, Townsend. Second Tenors were Messrs Blood, Mitchell, Vinal, Cook, Mumford, Hubbard, Nathan and Young. First Basses, Beatty, Holt, Wilder, Copeland, Jones, Williams, Holbrook, White and Rayner. The Second Basses were Messrs Buckley, Ide, Degen, Rorabach, Field and Umer. Several encores followed each selection.

Several committees were necessary to arrange the details of such a large undertaking and the following ones are the ones which deserve special praise. The Pink Tea Committee was composed of men who were willing to acknowledge that they were "on the water wagon" by selling soft drinks, and might say by consuming same. Mr. Beatty was the chairman and was assisted by Messrs Booth, Boutelle, Matthews, Blakemore, Bryant, Luce, Ide and Rice.

The advertising committee was well supplied with men, and all would do credit to advance press agents for a circus. On the list are found the names of Mr. Hubbard, chairman, and H. Plympton, T. B. Plympton, Luce, Rayner, Nathan, Snow, Curtis, Wales, Kidder, Richardson Jr., Huse, Richardson, White, Bliss and Spear. The men who were trying hard to advocate the idea that it is better to smoke now, rather than hereafter, were Mr. Crampton, chairman, and Kendall, Gray, Payne, Smith and Cutler in their eager attempts to sell cigars and cigarettes. The saying that it is impossible to do without women was certainly true as was shown by the way in which the following ladies exhibited their talents by their work in the Novelty Committee. Mrs. Nathan was chairman, and was ably assisted by the following: Messdames, Mitchell, Rayner, Snow, Bowen, Beatty and Crampton.

There was certainly a bevy of luscious young ladies who had volunteered to play the part of waitresses at this social function, the Misses Blackard, Brackett, Chapin, Cook, Davis, Dempsey, Dowd, Dowley, Ewing, Flanders, Goldard, Havens, Harrington, Merrill, Weston, Pratt, Alice Weston, Roberts, Spaulding, Sweeney, Wales, Wheeler, West, Wilkins and Young, and Messdames, Townsend, Hatch, Walker and Tapley did the heavy waiting (waiting for ten o'clock when their labors would be over).

Messrs Foote, Rich and Merrill were the "middlemen" in the distribution of the cigars.

The hall which was most beautifully decorated was done under the direction of E. R. Spear as chairman, and Messdames Rice, Cutler, Rising and Spaulding as assistants. On the food committee which was composed of physicians and marketmen was perhaps the reason that everything was "above par."

Mr. Wales, was chairman, while Doctors Andrew and West, and Messrs Bowen, Richardson, Paul and Young assisted. No social gathering is complete without a candy table, and there certainly was one here, as would be expressed colloquially "class" under the direction of Mrs. Rice as chairman, and Messdames Kelsey, Savin, Spear, Hovey, Green, Stratton and Fitch were the remaining members of the "sweet tooth" committee.

Over five hundred attended this pop concert and a large sum realized.

WHIST PARTY AND DANCE.

Nonantum Conclave, Improved Order of Heptasophs held a largely attended whist party and dance last Friday evening in Nonantum Hall, about 200 being present. Souvenirs at whist were awarded Mrs. Annie Dillon, Mrs. W. Bowen, Mrs. Albert Oaks, Mrs. Louis, Messrs L. G. Hayden and William Stickney.

The committee in charge were C. E. Josselyn, H. E. Johnson and H. Wilson assisted by R. C. Cummings, I. P. Doyle, E. E. Snyder, I. C. Ward, F. E. Maguire, J. A. Doyle, I. P. Slattery, T. W. Burgess, E. W. Paine, H. F. Conant, C. C. Fleischer, C. B. Oak, M. W. I. Carly, E. W. Paine, Dana Parks, D. T. Theall, G. F. Wilson, J. A. Wilson.

GRAND RAIL.

Those who attended the pop concert recently held by Gethsemane Commandery, Knights Templars, will not fail to attend the grand ball which will be held at the Masonic Apartment Newtonville, on Friday evening next, February 17th. The committee in charge have been assured of the attendance of J. Albert Blake, Grand Commander, Frank L. Nagle, Grand Generalissimo, William W. Johnson, Grand Capt. General, Lafayette G. Blair, Deputy Grand Commander and other officers of the Grand Commandery of Massachusetts and Rhode Island and many of the commanders of neighboring commanderies have signified their intention of being present with ladies. The decorations of the rooms will be extensive and unique, and the event will without doubt be one of the most entertaining and gorgeous which has taken place outside of Boston for years. During the reception of the grand officers the Knights will wear their full regalia, and the orchestra enlarged for the occasion, members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, among which will be a March dedicated to Gethsemane Commandery and played for the first time. After the reception there will be dancing and entertainment to meet the personal wishes of all present.

PLACE-POST.

The pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gorton in West Newton was the scene of a charming wedding on Wednesday at one o'clock when their niece Miss Helen Mary Post was united in marriage to Mr. H. Merton Place by the Rev. Julian C. Jaynes. The house was profusely decorated with wreaths and ropes of holly, banks of palms and ferns and pink roses everywhere. Mrs. Gorton in a gown of white satin was assisted in receiving by her daughter, Miss Evelyn Gorton, who wore a white robe with pink sash and satin shoes. The orchestra rendered an excellent program before and after the ceremony and played the Mendelssohn Wedding March for the bridal procession. The bride was daintily gowned in white satin, the tulle veil held by a wreath of lilies-of-the-valley. She wore a half-moon of pearls, the gift of the groom, and carried brides roses. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Florence Gorton who wore pink satin and carried pink roses. The groom was accompanied by Mr. Raymond Gorton. The ring ceremony was used and the bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. Robert Gorton. After greeting the bride and groom the guests, about fifty in number, adjourned to the spacious dining room, where a delicious luncheon was served. Amidst a shower of good wishes the newly wedded pair left for Ceres, N. Y., where they will make a visit of two weeks at the home of the groom's parents, and then leave for Whitewater, Wisconsin, where they expect to make their future home.

POLYMNIA GUEST NIGHT.

On Tuesday an interesting musical program and a very social evening were enjoyed, on the occasion of the second guest night of the season of 1910-1911, when Miss Kittie Thompson, assisted by Miss Sarah Southworth Webber, entertained the Polymnia and its guests at her home, 88 Otis street. As the stormy day had given place to a fine night, a good number of people were present. The Polymnia was assisted by Miss Edith Swift, contralto, Mr. Thomas W. Cotton, baritone, Rev. E. M. L. Gould, violin.

The graceful, animated Schumann songs which, grouped with the Reincke "Venice," (and making a fine contrast with them) formed the opening number of the program, gave special pleasure, and put the audience in just the right frame of mind to enjoy what followed. To a warm, rich quality of voice, Miss Swift added intelligence of conception and beauty of expression, which combined with her delightful personality and pleasing simplicity of manner win her instant friends among her audience. All her songs gave pleasure, but particularly her encore, "Sally in our Alley." The accompaniment of her songs were intricate and that, almost at sight is another tribute to Madame's wonderful playing.

Mr. Cotton has gained greatly in delicacy in handling his voice, in clearness and purity of tone, and shows intelligent and conscientious study, since the Polymnia heard him last. His voice is a full, agreeable baritone, warm and sweet in quality, and of surprising power. He is beginning to be somewhat known as a concert singer, in and around Boston. Mr. Gould has been heard and enjoyed before in the Polymnia concerts. He plays with a broad, vibrant tone and good technique. His first number, a Reverie, is a composition of his own, and was well received and appreciated. His accompaniments were played by his wife, who is a bride of last June, and a delightful pianist.

The Polymnia was unfortunate in the absence of several of its members, and in the fact that rehearsals of the last two months have been unavoidably small; but Madame Martinez is an ever inspiring power with her luteon and carried them safely through their numbers. Miss Mary C. Coxeter was at the piano. At the conclusion of the program Miss Elizabeth Upham was prevailed upon to sing. She studied abroad, last season, and is gaining very favorable commendation on the fresh, buoyant quality of her voice, and the ease and grace with which she sings.

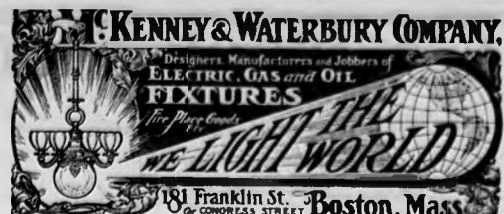

This being a February party, the cakes were heart-shaped, and heart-shaped motto candles were made a source of amusement and interest.

CHURCH MORTGAGE BURNED.

The mortgage for $955 on the Myrtle Baptist church (colored) of West Newton was burned last evening before the large congregation and many guests.

The services opened with speeches by Mayor Charles E. Hatfield, Rev. Frank W. Padelford, Rev. Newton M. Simmons of Waltham, Rev. Charles Morris, former pastor and originator of the new church, and the pastor, Rev. William W. Ryan.

Following the speechmaking and singing, the mortgage was ignited on a silver platter by Rev. Mr. Ryan and B. Lomax R. Simms and Mrs. Mary Rollins, the living founders, after which a collation was served.

The present tangled condition of affairs on Beacon Hill relative to the state budget formed the basis of Representative Norman H. White's address before the Men's League of the Newton Highlands Congregational Church last night. The well known Brookline representative not only fully explained this subject to his audience, but also clearly and distinctly stated his position on it. Mr. White contended that the resolve recently advocated by Speaker Walker on the floor of the House would tend to create a one-man power in the state finances; that it would give the governor power to recommend and virtually secure the passage of any appropriation he desired, while the legislature, the body responsible under the Constitution for state expenditures, and its Ways and Means Committee, which recommends such expenditures, is at present without power to discover whether such appropriations as the governor recommended were wise and just.

Mr. White, who like his colleague Representative White of Newton, has strongly opposed the passage of the so-called "Walker Resolve," announced most emphatically during his address that he had no objection, whatsoever, to the governor being given all the power he desired to investigate with or without the aid of experts. But he also stated, and stated just as emphatically, his belief that the same power of investigation given the governor in so far as it affected the Ways and Means Committee should likewise be given that committee. He strongly denounced Speaker Walker's efforts to make the governor responsible for the state expenditures, contending that such action was neither fair to the executive, nor right under the Constitution.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME.

One of the matters which keep our city officials constantly on the alert came up this week on the bill to require certain cities and towns to contribute towards the expense of the bridges across the Charles river between Boston and Cambridge. Why Newton was included in the list is a mystery, as the traffic from Newton to Boston in this direction is infinitesimal. Mayor Hatfield and City Solicitor Slooan entered strong objections on the part of Newton to the bill. Newton now maintains 7 bridges across the river.

A bill to place the cost of maintenance of the metropolitan park system on the entire state, instead of on the district was heard this week. The argument being based on the fact that all the municipalities in the district were forced to come in, there was no reason why this large expense should be placed on them alone. Figures were presented to show that the original estimate of expense had been placed at $1,000,000 and the debt now exceeds $14,000,000. This hearing will be continued.

The controversy between the Governor and the Ways and Means Committee of both houses as to the employment of experts to examine the department estimates of appropriations still continues. There is no question as to the need of these experts—there is also no sense of stating that the prerogatives of the House are encroached upon if the Governor is given the right to examine the estimates in advance of action by the Legislature. Newton has had a similar plan in making yearly estimates for a long time, and the only difference between the city and the state is the fact that the state asks the new executive to present the estimates and Newton has it done by the retiring executive. I find that my first criticism of Governor Foss on this matter was not justified, as the first bills sent in by him, were for routine expenses, which did not require much examination. Since then the governor and council have worked long and hard over the estimates, and the council has done its part. The governor, however, has withheld sending the results to the Legislature, evidently waiting action on his recommendation for expert advice. It is said that if the authority is given, the governor intends to appoint Mr. Harvey S. Chase of this city as his expert.

The hearing on Tuesday on the request of the Mass. Institute of Technology for state aid to the amount of $100,000 is of great interest in this city, the home of hundreds of students and graduates. Newton ranks next to Boston in the number of students in the institute, with some forty pupils. The hearing brought out a large number of friends of Tech, and the opposition was slight. While the increase in state aid from $25,000 to $100,000 per year, seems large, it is due entirely to the rapid growth of the institute and a consequent increase in its value to the Commonwealth.

One of the most sensible bills relative to bill advertising will be heard Feb. 24. It will allow local option with power to make suitable regulations for the comfort of the public. It is the best solution of the problem I have yet seen.

All three of our representatives voted against the bill to allow the town of Plymouth to invest in the new street railway company to connect with Sandwich. The bill passed by a narrow margin.

Hearings will be held before the Metropolitan Affairs committee on Feb. 15 on the proposed boulevard between Watertown and West Roxbury and for the proposed new Weston bridge. On Monday the same committee holds a postponed hearing on the improvement of Charles river between Waltham and Upper Falls. The hearing on proposed division of wards into voting precincts in this city will be heard by the Committee on Cities on Feb. 21st.

LOWER FALLS AWAKE

At a mass meeting held Saturday evening in Freeman hall, Newton Lower Falls, the residents of Newton and Wellesley were present in large numbers to discuss the unsanitary condition of the Charles river. Resolutions were adopted in favor of dredging the river and a committee of 17 were chosen to appear before the committee on metropolitan affairs at the state house next Monday afternoon, to urge the granting of an appropriation of $25000 to start the work of dredging the river through Newton.

Alderman Bernard Early of Newton was chosen chairman of the meeting and J. S. Connolly, secretary. Alderman Early described at length the efforts which have been made for the past 10 years to have the river dredged, and that the legislature had repeatedly turned the petition down. A bill was passed in 1906 through the efforts of Miss Sarah Fuller, which prohibited the pollution of the river by the mills.

Mayor Charles E. Hatfield declared that he was strongly in favor of the bill, and that he thought that the river was a menace to the community. Rev. P. H. Callanan, Rev. Francis White, Rev. E. H. Thrasher and Miss Sarah Fuller also spoke in favor of the bill.

City Engineer Rogers of Newton showed a number of plans of the proposed dredging of the river and declared that in some portions of the river the dirt dug up could be used for filling in other places.

The following resolutions were adopted: Resolved, That it is the sense of the meeting that the sanitary condition of the Charles river in the vicinity of Newton Lower Falls is such as to demand immediate attention and that we respectfully request the legislature of Massachusetts to take steps to remedy these conditions at once.

The following committee was appointed to appear at the hearing: Rev. P. H. Callanan chairman, Miss Sarah Fuller, Rev. E. H. Thrasher, Rev. Francis White, Alderman Bernard Early, Selectman George A. Sweetser, and George N. Smith of Wellesley, Charles Hatch, Dr. O. L. Schofield, F. C. Leslie, C. C. Ferris, James Early, C.

CANOE BURNED.

Early Saturday morning fire was discovered in the canoe factory of J. R. Robertson on Charles street, in the Riverside section of Auburndale. It started, apparently, near the boiler in the basement and ate through the first floor, burning a number of partly-finished canoes. On racks in this room, and on the next floor above, were scores of new canoes, and a large paint shop, containing quantities of varnish and other highly inflammable material was also in the path of the flames but the firemen managed to drown them out in time.

The fire was discovered at 3.30 o'clock by Patrolman Joseph Seaver. He was on Auburn street, an eighth of a mile away, when he smelled smoke. After investigating all the buildings in the immediate vicinity he finally got near enough to the factory to see the flames reflected on the glass of the windows. Half an hour later the entire building would have been consumed. Close at hand are the buildings of the Newton Boat Club, as well as several other large boat-houses, and in the immediate neighborhood are the boat-houses of the Boston Athletic Association and the Riverside Recreation Grounds, while a number of wooden dwellings flank the factory. Had the fire obtained more of a start it is probable that flying embers would have undoubtedly fired some of these buildings. The loss was more than $500.

THE COLONIAL MAID.

The annual Theatricals of St. John's Church, Newtonville, will be given by the young people of that Parish, in Players' Hall, West Newton, next Friday evening, February twenty-fourth, at eight o'clock. A three act comedy, "The Colonel's Maid", will be given this year. The cast has been hard at work rehearsing, for some time, and the play which is full of amusing incidents and is "One Big Laugh" from start to finish, should prove a big success.

D. A. R.

The Lucy Jackson Chapter, D. A. R. of Newton, met on Monday, Feb. 13, at the home of Mrs. Austin G. Sherman, Walnut street, Newtonville. Mrs. Fred S. Sherman, Mrs. Walter A. Corson and Mrs. George H. Wilkins being the hostesses with her.

The Regent, Mrs. Arthur P. Friend, presided at the business meeting and announced that the chapter had voted to present a six foot flag with pole, to Mr. Parks' Boys' Club of West Newton. The Board of Management have decided that the March meeting will take the form of a luncheon in honor of the State Regent, Mrs. Dunning, to be held at the Newton Clubhouse, on the thirtieth of the month.

Reference was feelingly made by the Regent to the chapter's loss by death, of its beloved member, Mrs. Joseph Fyffe of West Newton.

Mrs. Friend asked for the nomination of the delegate and alternates to go with her to the National Congress at Washington in April; and Mrs. Charles D. Meserve was elected as delegate, with Mrs. Walter Allen, Mrs. Frank W. Pray, Mrs. D. R. Puffer, Mrs. H. N. Miliken, Mrs. John Rice, Mrs. B. W. Hackett, Mrs. W. H. Lucas, Mrs. John Damon as alternates.

Mrs. George R. Pulsifer sang with much feeling four Indian songs which have been developed from the original tribal songs: Mrs. Albert Carter accompanying her on the piano. Then Rev. Julian Jaynes of West Newton gave the chapter a masterly and sympathetic address on Lincoln, which produced a profound impression. After singing America, the members and guests enjoyed a social hour in the dining room, with Mrs. Frank Pray, Mrs. Arthur Hosmer and Mrs. David Baker serving.

POLYMNIA WHIST.

On Wednesday afternoon an especially pretty and successful whist party was given by the Polymnia at the house of Mrs. A. F. Jones, 370 Newtonville avenue, Newtonville. There were 11 tables of bridge and two of plain whist in play.

The whist prize was taken by Mrs. Price of Waltham; the bridge prizes by Mrs. Chas. E. Conant, Mrs. Wm. C. Richardson, Miss Emily F. Bradbury, Mrs. Lincoln Righter.

The rooms were attractively decorated, red being the dominant note of color, and the valentine season was apparent in the cupids and hearts used in festoons here and there, in doorways and against the white curtains, 6 white glass candlesticks, severely plain in style, holding vivid red candles were a most happy touch amid the delightful carrying out of the color scheme in the dining room. Red and white candies, red hearts in the white frosting of little cakes, and glowing red ribbon just where a touch of it was needed to focus the whole effect into a warm, harmonious whole.

The Polymnia has added one more to the list of their successful and delightful parties, which are becoming known as real "society" functions.

ARMORY DEDICATION

The dedication of the new armory of Co. C 5th Regiment M. V. M. on Washington street, West Newton, will take place next Wednesday evening and will be a most brilliant affair. Governor Foss will be the special guest and will be accompanied by his staff and other high military officers of the Commonwealth. These guests will be seated at six o'clock by Mr. Lewis R. Spear, president of the Claffin Guard Veteran Association and will reach the new armory about eight o'clock. The program includes selections by the Temple quartet, an address turning the armory over to the Commonwealth by Adjutant General Gardner W. Pearson, chairman of the Armory Commission, its acceptance by Governor Foss and the delivery of the keys to Captain George F. Guilford of Co. C by Governor Foss and their acceptance. Addresses will also be made by General William H. Oakes, Col. Frank F. Cutting and Mayor Hatfield. After the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" a reception will be tendered Governor Foss in the assembly room, followed by the grand march and dancing.

A FINE PLANT.

Massachusetts editors were the guests last Monday of the Christian Science Monitor at Boston, and they enjoyed the inspection of what is claimed to be the finest newspaper plant in the country if not in the entire world. The party met at noon and after a dainty luncheon were shown the courtesies of the plant by Mr. Alexander Dodd and his assistants. To newspaper men the plant was of the greatest interest, and the cleanliness of the place occasioned the most comment. Even the office toilet came in for a view and were found as clean as the entire office. The editorial rooms, the linotype machines, stereotyping plant, mailing machines, and press room were viewed and admired in turn. Machines which automatically wrap, address and sort for mailing at the rate of 6000 an hour were points of interest, and the great presses, representing an investment of about $40,000 each, and which were turning out a sixteen page paper at the rate of 30,000 to 35,000 each per hour, and mechanically counting them in fives as they were delivered, attracted the most attention. Mr. Charles E. Lord of Newton was one of the hosts of the afternoon.

REUNION.

The annual reunion of the class of '73 E. H. S. of Boston, of which Mr. Thomas E. Stutson of West Newton is president, will be held at Youngs Hotel on Saturday, Feb. 25. "Aviation Night" will be the title of the evening.

HISTORICAL PAGEANT.

The Centenary Church of Auburndale will inaugurate the social uses of its new parish home on the evening of Feb. 22 and 23 by presenting a historical pageant "The Great Republic" depicting in picture and song, the story of the nation's life from the discoveries of the Northmen to the close of the Spanish War, in five sections. The first period (Settlement and Discovery) shows in effective tableaux such important events as "Life in Vineland", "Indians worshipping the Sun-rise", "Landing of Columbus", "Rescue of John Smith", "Life in Plymouth", "John Eliot preaching to Indians", "Penn's Treaty" and "Pere Marquette on the Mississippi". The second part tells the story of the Revolution briefly. The third section is allegorical and is being very carefully rehearsed. It represents the organization of the 13 states into the nation (Columbia), the coming of the immigrants, the race question and secession. The fourth part contains 9 tableaux and sketches depicting scenes in the Civil War. The fifth part allegorically represents reunion, expansion, and the Spanish war. The attempt to have all costumes historically accurate gives the pageant an actual educational value. One hundred different persons will participate in the five sections.

PARISH HOUSE OPENED

Sunday was an important day in the history of the Centenary Methodist Church at Auburndale. The third annual Lincoln Memorial Service was held at 10.30 and was attended by Charles Ward Post, 62, G. A. R., Thomas Burnett Camp 10, Spanish War Veterans; J. Wiley Edmonds Camp 31, Sons of Veterans, Mrs. A. E. Cunningham Tent 2, Daughters of Veterans and the Woman's Auxiliary to the Camp of Spanish War Veterans. These organizations were escorted from the railroad station to the church by the Butler Boys Club and the Nurse's Corps of the church.

The program consisted in part of a processional hymn, Salute to the Colors, Apostle's Creed, Prayer by Bishop Willard F. Mallalieu, solo "Divine Redeemer," Miss Olive Bourne, Offertory, "Cello Solo by Miss Edith Solen, a special hymn dedicated to the Butler Boys' Club, entitled "Our Flag" sung by Mrs. Lizzie T. Estabrook. The words are by J. H. Tourjee and the music by L. S. Tourjee, both children of Eben Tourjee founder of the New England Conservatory of Music. Rev. Charles E. Spaulding preached a sermon on "Abraham Lincoln, a Prophet and a Prophecy." The benediction was by Bishop Mallalieu and "America" was sung for a recessional hymn. An augmented choir assisted in the musical service.

In the afternoon the new parish house was dedicated by Bishop Mallalieu at 3 o'clock. Among the clergymen who assisted in the dedication ceremonies were Prof. H. C. Sheldon of Boston University, Rev. Dr. W. R. Newhall, pastor 1886-1887, now pastor of the Union Square church in Somerville, Rev. John Matteson, rector of the Church of the Messiah, Rev. Dr. W. C. Gordon of the Auburndale Congregational church, Rev. Dr. Albert C. Knudsen of Boston University, who preached the sermon, and Rev. Dr. Francis N. Peloubet. The presentation of the new building, on behalf of the trustees, was made by W. T. Shepherd, president of the board. There was special music and a solo by William Francis.

In the evening at 7.30 a laymen's meeting was held with Rev. Mr. Spaulding presiding. Among those making brief addresses were L. H. Hilton, president of the Epworth League, R. F. Douglas of Brookline, and Miss L. R. Potter, preceptress at Lasell Seminary. A large number of the Lasell students were present. There was special music including solos by William Francis and James Wright. The building cost $6500, the afternoon collection amounted to $500, which leaves a small debt on the church of $500.

The new parish house consists of a commodious room for the sessions of the Bible School and for the increasing social work of the church. This hall is 32 by 40 feet, has a platform 18 by 16 feet, and is connected with seven class rooms. In the rear of the platform is a roomy kitchen supplied with instantaneous water heater, gas ranges and all the appliances of a modern room of this sort. Vestment closets, library and lavatories occupy a section connecting with the former chapel which has been thoroughly renovated, recarpeted and frescoed. The hall is stained in shades of brown, has a floor of maple, and is lighted electrically. The methods of heating and ventilation have received particular attention and have the most approved appliances obtainable. Changes have been made so that the entire church property is heated from a steam-heating apparatus located in the basement of the church. The principal contracts have been given to Mr. R. C. Wilson, Concord, Mass., carpenter, Pierce & Cox of Boston, steam-fitters, Gallagher Bros. of Newton, plumbers, and Mr. G. S. Gordon, Auburndale, decorator. Further improvements contemplated upon the church itself include electric lighting and a series of memorial windows, seven in number, to depict seven scenes in the life of the Saviour from the Nativity to the Ascension. These windows will be especially designed for this church by Mr. Wm. A. Millson, recently of London, and will be executed in the medieval effect by the firm of Murphy & Millson, Boston. The first of these windows will be ready for unveiling some time in March.

FIRE DEPT. TESTED

The unusual test of the Fire department to answer an alarm pulled for exhibition purposes, took place late Saturday evening, when an alarm committee, which is considering the mayor's recommendation for a new fire station near West Newton hill, desired to inform themselves as to the quality of service in that district. The alarm was pulled at 9.59 P. M. from box 39 at the corner of Prince and Berkeley streets, West Newton. The first to respond was Asst. Chief Holmes with two men on his automobile, his time being 4 minutes, 12 seconds from the first stroke of the bell. The automobile truck with 5 men arrived from Newtonville in 6 minutes, 15 seconds, and was closely followed in 6 minutes and 20 seconds by Chief Randlett and 1 man from Newton Centre. Engine 2 arrived together in 7 minutes and 40 seconds, and the heavy truck with 4 men was last in 10 minutes and 30 seconds. The time made is exceptionally good, considering the fact that some 8 inches of snow had been on the ground for a few days, and would probably be considerably lowered with better travelling conditions.

THEATRICALS.

The parish house of the Universalist church, Newtonville, was well filled Wednesday evening, when the play "Higbee of Harvard" was given as a dramatic presentation under the direction of Mr. William O. Partridge Jr., and under the auspices of the Lend-A-Hand. The character parts had been well selected and the work throughout showed careful training and study. Those participating in the play were the Misses Alice M. Wright, Marion D. Bassett, Grace A. Brown and Ruth L. Cunningham and Messrs. Willard E. Higgins, William O. Partridge Jr., George M. Bridges, Ralph H. Somers and Bowman S. Atkins. During the evening a musical program was rendered by the Chadney Trio.

MAN KILLED.

Late Saturday night a man known as Frank Connors was killed by a train on the tracks of the R. & A. R. R. near the North Beacon street bridge at Brighton. Several trains had passed over the body before it was discovered.

In a book found in one of the pockets there appeared the name of "Frank Connors," and it was later learned that Connors until five months ago lived at 198 California street, Newton. His relatives are not known to the police. George E. Green of 10 Raymond place, Brighton, who said he knew the dead man intimately, called at the morgue yesterday and declared that he would claim the body if the relatives of Connors were not found.

LEND-A-HAND CONFERENCE.

The mid-winter conference of Lend-A-Hand Clubs will be held in the Universalist church parlors on Saturday, February 18th. The conference will open at 10.45 and reports will be given in the morning. The afternoon session will be public. Spirited addresses on topics of interest to our clubs. Rev. Albert Hammett, the pastor of the church, will make a short address. Miss Nichols, the president of the state society of Christian Endeavor will represent her society. Mrs. Bowker, the president of the Women's Municipal League will speak and Mr. Arthur A. Carey will address the clubs on the Boy Scout movement. The afternoon session opens at two o'clock and the public is cordially invited to be present.

How can we make a pound of coal evaporate more water? Is the question we continually ask ourselves. As it is, the "WINCHESTER" Boiler does more than others and is, therefore, the cheapest Boiler for the house-owner to install. For catalogue write SMITH & THAYER CO., 236 Congress St., Boston, Mass.

and will be dedicated to the memory of George S. and Priscilla L. Bourne both of whom were charter members of Centenary church.

NO DANGER.

Undue importance has been given the fact that three cases of scarlet fever have occurred among pupils of the Underwood school the past week. As one case had occurred a few weeks ago, parents became anxious, and many children have been taken out of school. The board of health has taken every precaution, and following its usual custom, where more than one case takes place in a school, has made a strict examination of every child in the school daily, and Dr. Davenport, the school inspector, has been assisted in this work by Dr. Curtis, chairman of the board of health. No child will be admitted to the school in the future until examined by the school inspector. Parents, therefore, need not worry as it is certain that there is no undiscovered case now in the school and none will be admitted.

UNITARIAN CLUB.

The monthly meeting of the Unitarian Club was held last evening in the parish house of the West Newton Unitarian church. There was a large attendance and supper was served at 6.30. Later Mr. Charles Wellington Furlong, F.R.G.S., gave an interesting and instructive lecture on "The Sahara and Its Caravans". With the aid of a large collection of fine stereoscopic views the speaker described the northern part of Africa, Tunis, Algiers, Tripoli, the manners and customs of the people, the makeup of caravans and a 300 mile trip he took into the desert. The club passed two motions, one to send congratulations to Mr. Warren P. Tyler on his 90th birthday which he is celebrating today and the other a letter of congratulation to Hon. John W. Weeks on the passing of his Forestry bill by congress. Messrs. Tyler and Weeks are both members of the club.

KATAHDIN CLUB.

Schoolboy Blunders.

The University Correspondent recently offered a prize for schoolboy mistakes. Here are a few examples: "Mute, inglorious Milton"—these epitaphs are used by a writer who was envious of Milton's being poet laureate. He finds "sermons in stones" expresses the same idea as Wordsworth's "the restless stone chat all day long is heard." Calvin was a noted scientist and peer, who died lately. Naples is an independent state in the north of India. Shakespeare made a mistake in mentioning Galen, who did not live until a hundred years after his time. The feminine of fox is foxhen. John Burns was the name of one of the claimants to the throne of Scotland in the reign of Edward I. The pyramids are a range of mountains between France and Spain. The three highest mountains in Scotland are Ben Nevis, Ben Lomond and Ben Jonson. Wolsey saved his life by dying on the way from York to London. When the English first landed in Australia the only four footed animal in the country was a rat. Monsoons are fertile gorges between the Himalayas.

When Bjornson Died.

Bjornson's son, in describing the last hours of his father, writes: "Now and then the bright flame of his humor flickered up. The doctor felt his pulse and said it was good. With his face beaming with humor he turned toward us and said, 'I am the first man to die with a good pulse.' He said one evening—and it seemed as if an old wise man was speaking with the weight of experience, 'Now I could write—yes, now I could write, for I have been in the realms of death and have felt the pain that attends death.' And when all of us thought that the indifference of death was upon him—my mother, who always gave him his food, which he would receive only from her, stood at the bedside with a brooch on her breast which she had worn at her confirmation—then he opened his eyes and looked at her. He smiled, lifted his hand and touched the brooch. This was the last sign to the outer world he was able to give."

A Cold Ride.

All through his life Senator Dolliver of Iowa had a horror of fast trains and possible railroad wrecks. Once he was on a train with Vice President Fairbanks.

Dolliver awoke in the middle of the night, and it seemed to him that the train was going at terrific speed. He climbed out of his berth and, arrayed only in his pajamas, started down the length of the train to find the conductor and ask him to order the train run at less speed. It was a cold night, but the senator did not mind that until the door of his car snapped shut and locked behind him and he found that the door of the next coach was also locked. He rode sixty-five miles locked out in the cold of the vestibule before he could wake up anybody to let him in. Mr. Fairbanks finally heard his cries for help and rescued him.—New York Tribune.

Necks and Legs of Animals.

With few exceptions there is a marked equality between the length of the necks and of the legs of both birds and quadrupeds, and whether they be long or short is determined chiefly by the place where the animal must go for its food. This is especially noticeable in beasts that feed constantly upon grass, in which case the neck has just a slight advantage in that it cannot hang perpendicularly down. Crocodiles, lizards and fish have practically no necks. Fowls that feed in the water also offer an example of this correspondence between the members, with the exception of swans and geese and some Indian birds, which gather their food from the bottom of pools and must have long necks for that purpose, while the short legs make it more convenient for them to swim.—Dietetic and Hygienic Gazette.

A Story Pepsy Tells.

Pepsy tells in his diary that in the reign of King Charles II. a customer bargaining with a London merchant for chert hired a confederate to "thunder" (which he had the art of doing upon a deal board) and to ruin and halt—that is, make the noise of—so as to give them a pretense of undervaluing their merchant's wares, by saying this thunder would spoil and turn them, which was so reasonable to the merchant that he did about two pistols per tun for the wine in belief of that.

A Mighty Difference.

Brougham used to tell an anecdote about the flight from Waterloo. Napoleon was greatly depressed. His aid riding beside him thought he might be sorrowing over the loss of so many old comrades at arms and tried to comfort him by saying that Wellington also must have lost many friends. "He has not lost the battle," was the reply.

Utterly Useless.

"Pa, what is a futile remark?" "The one a man makes for the purpose of changing the subject when his wife complains because he has forgotten their wedding anniversary."—Chicago Record-Herald.

She Was Wise.

"I asked Miss Jumps to sing something, and she refused point blank. Is she grouchy?" "No. She's trying to make a bit with you. Cheer up."—Toledo Blade.

A Sound Reason.

Misses—Didn't you hear me calling, Jane? Jane—Yes'm, but you told me the other day never to answer you back.—Throne and Country.

Whatever enlarges hope will exalt courage.—Johnson.

The Change That Was Wrought.

The little man was explaining to his audience the benefits of physical culture. "Three years ago," he said, "I was a miserable wreck. Now, what do you suppose brought about this great change in me?" "What change?" said a voice from the audience. There was a succession of loud smiles, and some persons thought to see him collapse. But the little man was not to be put out. "Will the gentleman who asked 'What change?' kindly step up here?" he asked suavely. "I shall then be better able to explain. 'That's right!' Then, grabbing the witty gentleman by the neck: 'When I first took up physical culture I could not even lift a little man. Now (quitting action to word) I can throw one about like a bundle of rags.' And finally he flung the interrupter half a dozen yards along the floor. 'I trust, gentlemen, that you will see the force of my argument and that I have not hurt this gentleman's feelings by my explanation.' There were no more interruptions.

Two Collars on a Dog.

Having bought a dog that he admired, a man undertook to buy a dog collar. The dog had a neck nearly as big as his head, and the dealer advised the man to buy two collars.

"What for?" said the man. "He's only got one neck, so I guess he can get along with only one collar, can't he?"

"Maybe so," said the man, so the man went away leading the dog by his new collar and chain. In less than a week he brought the dog back.

"I'm afraid I can't keep him," he said. "He is too obstreperous. I can't keep him tied up. His neck is the biggest part of him, and he is as strong as an ox, therefore it is a cinch for him to slip his collar off."

"That was why I wanted you to take two collars," said the dealer. "Put both on and fasten the chain to the back collar and he can tug away all night without getting loose. He may commit suicide, but he won't get loose."—New York Sun.

Disappointed in Her.

"And so your father refuses to consent to our union."

"He does, Rodolphus."

The sad youth swallowed a sob.

"Is there nothing left for us, then, but an elopement?" said he.

"Nothing."

The girl was fond, but firm.

"Do you think, Clementine, that you could abandon this luxurious home, forget all the enjoyments of great wealth, banish yourself forever from your devoted parents' hearts and go west with a poor young man to enter a home of lifelong poverty and self denial?"

"I could, Rodolphus."

The sad youth rose wearily and reached for his hat.

"Then," said he, "you are far from being the practical girl I have all along taken you to be."

And with one last look around on the sumptuousness that some day he had hoped to share he sobbed and said farewell.—Browning's Magazine.

Had to Take His Own Medicine.

George Barr McCutcheon was waiting for a train in Chicago, and as he passed through the station he saw one of his latest best sellers displayed on the newsstand counter. He picked it up, wrote his name on the fly leaf and handed it to the boy behind the counter. He was moving away when the boy called excitedly: "Hey, mister, come back here. You've got to buy this book 'cause you've spoiled it by writing your name in it."

"Yes, but did you see the name?" the author asked.

"That don't make no difference," the lad insisted; "nobody'll want to buy it now."

And, hearing his train called, Mr. McCutcheon was forced to pay real money for one of his own books.—Success Magazine.

Outdone.

Teacher—Now, boys, I want to see if any of you can make a complete sentence out of two words, both having the same sound to the ear.

First Boy—I can, Miss Smith.

Teacher—Very well, Robert. Let us hear your sentence.

First Boy—Write right.

Teacher—Very good.

Second Boy—Say, Miss Smith, I can beat that. I can make three words of it—wright, write right.

Third Boy (excitedly)—Gee! Hear this—wright, write rite right.

Teacher (thrown off her guard)—Whew!—Topeka Journal.

Wanted It to Show.

A rich old farmer once had his portrait painted. When the portrait was finished the old farmer looked at it, shook his head and said to the artist: "Very good. Very good, indeed. But there is one fault that you must remedy. Please make the right side of the chest bulge out. That is where I carry my wallet."

The Sad Part.

"Doesn't it make you sad," exclaimed the member of the Audubon society, "to see women wearing on their hats the feathers of the poor little birds?" "It isn't the feathers that make me sad," replied the practical married man. "It's their bills."—Philadelphia Record.

THEATRES

Hollis Street Theatre—Local theatre-goers have a treat in store for next Monday night in the production at the Hollis Street Theatre, Boston, of Porter Emerson Browne's latest drama, "The Spendthrift." "The Spendthrift" is a drama of present day life that tells the story of the wreck of a family's happiness brought about by the divergence of thought and the different paths followed in the pursuit of happiness by a husband and wife. One of the most striking points in the play is that while the woman is wasteful and extravagant she is a most lovable character throughout and is prompted in her wanton lavishness of everything by her desire to provide her husband with a home that she honestly thinks befitting his station in life. At first thought it might seem that this play might not appeal to women but on play ever appealed to them more. An exceptional cast interprets the different roles. It is headed by Edmund Breese who won country wide distinction in "The Lion and the Mouse" and Thais Magrane, the beautiful young California actress who has never been seen in Boston. There will be matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

Shubert Theatre—Direct from a record breaking run of six months in New York City and seven months in Chicago, "The Fourth Estate," the great play of newspaper life, by Joseph Medill Patterson and Miss Harriet Ford, will be seen for the first time in Boston at the Shubert Theatre next Monday evening, Feb. 20, for a limited engagement, including the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees. "The Fourth Estate" is a great play of newspaper life, and by a newspaper man who knows the game. Not only is the play beautifully acted, but its mechanical effects and situations are of a nature which not only thrill with their power and startle with their unexpectedness.

SERVICE

Business success of today is based on service, even more forcibly than on quality, for, though quality is an essential, without service it counts for little. The house that intelligently combines both quality and service,—service in suggestion, in economically directing the customer's outlay, and in supplying expert workmen,—is the house that retains the old and makes new friends. This is true of all lines, and to our recognition of it we believe we owe our thirty-five years of business in Newton and Needham.

but the theme of the play is so big, its great questions so easily a part of the every-day life and problems of every man and woman who see it, that it makes an irresistible appeal, not only to the senses but to the mentality. The play has been staged with a breadth and massiveness which could only make for popularity. Its scenes are marvels of stagecraft, and nothing greater than the much-talked-of composing-room scene, with its linotype machines, its blazing lights, its toiling printers, and its hum of industry has even been given to the stage.

B. F. Keith's Theatre—The event of the season is due next week when Gertrude Hoffmann and her company of forty will be the feature. This is unquestionably one of the most elaborate productions ever offered in vaudeville, or anywhere else, and the work done by Miss Hoffmann herself seems almost incredible. During the action of the piece she impersonates something like a dozen different characters. When it is considered that for each of these impersonations there is a complete change of costume, scenery and lighting effects, and one scene, a huge bathing scene, introduces a mammoth tank in which fifteen girls of the Annette Kellerman type sport in the water jumping from spring boards and sliding down chutes into the tank, the entire act is on a magnitude never before attempted. The surrounding bill will be of exceptional interest, one feature of it being Paul Selloms' Venus, the most beautiful series of living statuary and models ever presented. A big comedy act will be Milton and DeLong Sisters, with a special setting showing Alfalfa Junction and the railroad station, where there is a lot of hearty laughs. Phil Stants, the heavyweight comedian; the 4 Floods in comedy acrobatics; McDevitt and Kelly in dances; and Eldora, a remarkably clever juggler, are also on the bill.

Castle Square Theatre—The second week of "Faust" begins at the Castle Square on Monday. It is one of the most beautiful and elaborate productions ever made of that play, or of any play, on the stage of that theatre, and its success has been warranted in every respect. The familiar tale of the German scholar who bargained with Mephistopheles for the pleasures of youth, is told in this version of Goethe's dramatic poem with no little skill, and the stage settings and spectacular effects add not a little to its romantic value. Especially startling and effective is the great scene on the heights of the Brocken, where Mephistopheles summons to his aid all the forces of earth and nature.

Stories of the Paris Courts.

Among humorous stories of the Paris law courts it is told how a well known lawyer, M. Aicard Rousseau, was once pleading a rather tiresome case and, noticing that the judges were paying no attention to him, said, "As the president is falling asleep I suspend my speech." But the judge had just woken up and cried, "And I suspend you from practicing for six months." Nothing daunted, the lawyer retorted, "Well, I suspend myself forever and ever," and, gathering up his brief and cap, he left the court and never appeared again.

A Paris barrister, M. Clerg, however, was more vigorous. Seeing that the president and the assessors were all asleep, he stopped, and, dealing a tremendous blow on the desk in front of him that woke everybody up with a start, he cried, "Yesterday at this same hour I was saying"—And the whole bench rubbed their eyes and asked each other if they had really slept through twenty-four hours.

The same counsel was pleading at Versailles on a cold day and remarked that the judges were all turning more and more around toward a stove that gave out a welcome heat. "The tribunal behind which I have the honor of speaking" brought them all right about face at once.

He Had a Claim.

In a certain town was a young lawyer whose father was very rich and who had been sent to an eastern law school. Since his graduation he had done nothing except open an office because he had plenty of money. This young lawyer was proposed for membership in the local fire company.

"We cannot elect him," one of the members protested. "The constitution of our company says that the members of it must sleep and live here in the city, and he lives out of town on a farm and not in the city at all. He would be of no value at all in case of a fire at night. He doesn't sleep here at night."

"No," replied his proposer; "It is true he doesn't sleep here at night, but he sleeps here in his office all day." And they elected him on that ground.—Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post

The Simple Maid.

'Twas in a simple country town, and the maid of all work was simple and innocent in sympathy. When she returned from shopping half a sovereign short in her change Mrs. Mango-Chutney was naturally incensed.

"Go back to each shop, you careless girl," she told the weeping maid, "and tell them you are half a sovereign short in your money and they must give it you."

Susan went and was back again in half an hour. Entering her mistress's sanctum, she laid five half sovereigns on the table before her. Faithful as always, she had carried out Mrs. Mango-Chutney's instructions to the letter, and each shopkeeper, fearful of doing wrong and hurting a fellow creature, had thrust the missing coin upon the bewildered girl.—London Answers

The Offending Black Bottle.

A church member in a lonely district of Saskatchewan absented himself from services for some months. On being approached on the subject he said he was sorry, but it was impossible to attend any more. He was pressed to give reasons and at length said it was owing to the bad conduct of the superintending clergyman and catechist.

He and others had witnessed their drinking when driving round on their visits. They had passed a black bottle from hand to hand. It was impossible to attend the ministry of such men. Inquiries proved that the offending "bottle" was a pair of field glasses with which the drivers surveyed the surrounding country and tried to locate the various churches, shades and trails.—Sunday at Home.

Not Always.

"Whenever I hear the suffrage coin bated," said an English lord, "on the score of woman's protected, sheltered petted life I think of a poor woman I once questioned in England."

"This poor creature had been beaten by her husband in a drunken fury. The man had been drunk, it appears for ten days running."

"My good friend," I said to her "does your husband always drink like that?"

"No, my lord," she answered. "Some times I gets hout o' work."

A Witty Retort.

An Englishman in Dublin was asked by an Irish cab driver if he wished to ride through the city.

"No," replied the Englishman; "I am able to walk."

"Ah, well," remarked the Jehu, "may yer honor long be able, but seldom willing!"

Forgot the Proverb.

"You may not get any more business from me. I've bought a law book."

"I won't worry," responded the lawyer. "In that case I shall probably get more business than ever."—Washington Herald.

An Old English Inn.

The Seven Stars is an inn or public house in Manchester, England, which has held a license continuously since 1370. It served as the meeting place for the Guy Fawkes band of conspirators.

An obstinate man does not hold opinions; they hold him.—Butler.

Making Sure of the Job

THE live workman with a telephone earns more money than the man without one. It enables him to snap up the best chances without loss of time or energy.

Men who hire workmen usually have telephones. The man reached first gets the work. The cost is only a few cents a day.

It is worth a great deal to any workman to have a telephone in his home. It pays the largest dividends of any investment he can make. The great Bell system reaches every part of the United States, and toll rates are low.

Have you a telephone? If not, drop a postal to the Local Manager.

Write as a general thing the ringing in of the fire alarm for exhibition purposes, is not to be encouraged, the showing made last Saturday evening at the test on West Newton hill will serve to revive public confidence in the fire department. The frequency of fires in the West Newton hill district, together with the large amount of property at risk, has created a demand for better fire protection, which it was thought could be best obtained by erecting a new fire station in that vicinity. If the department can respond to a call within less than five minutes with poor travelling conditions, it would seem hardly necessary to go to the large expense of a new station and equipment and maintenance. Far better results could be obtained with half the money by the purchase of two additional pieces of auto mobile apparatus, and locating one at Newton Highlands and the other at Nonantum Square.

It is hard to conceive of any reasonable opposition to the construction of a new bridge over the Charles river at Commonwealth avenue. The summer conditions at this point, with thousands of spectators, hundreds of automobiles and the attractions of the river, which lead many to loiter on the bridge, are so dangerous that immediate action should be taken.

Congressman Weeks has earned the warm thanks of all friends of conservation in the passage this week by the national senate of the bill which bears his name. It was primarily due to his good work that the measure ran the gauntlet of the House last year, and he is entitled to all the credit which will accrue for an act which marks the beginning of a new and wider policy of the national government towards preserving our forests and rivers.

The refusal of the Legislative committee to favorably report on the proposition to give the municipal franchise to women who pay a property tax is to be regretted, as it is the most reasonable of the many women suffrage measures before the legislature. It is becoming more and more evident that municipal administration is practically a housekeeping job and women certainly have a deep and vital interest in such departments, of garbage removal, collection of ashes, cleanliness of streets and sidewalks, playgrounds, libraries, and many other phases of municipal work. To assess women to pay the expenses of civil administration, without giving them the right to choose how their money shall be expended, is plainly "taxation without representation".

Too Precious.
"Makers to his majesty" and "imported" are words that carry much weight to many minds. It is strange what a glory a foreign label can cast upon a commonplace article. The fact of a commodity having crossed the water, however, is not taken quite so soberly today as it was some fifty or sixty years ago. M. C. D. Silbee gives an instance in her "A Half Century in Salem."

Miss Ann M. Rust was one of the two milliners. She had a large collection of finery, shelves full of handsome ribbons and glass showcases of rich embroideries, besides the inevitable bonnets. Once she imported a quantity of exquisite French caps. The strings were somewhat crushed in the transit across the ocean. The caps were quickly disposed of. An aunt bought one, and Miss Rust innocently observed that a "warm iron would make the creases all right."
"What!" indignantly exclaimed the aunt. "Smooth a crease made in Paris?
No, indeed; never!"

A Famous English Clock.
Wells cathedral contains one of the most interesting clocks in the whole world. It was constructed by Peter Lightfoot, a monk, in 1320 and embraces many devices which testify to the ancient horologist's ingenuity.
Several celestial and terrestrial bodies are incorporated in the interesting movement and relationship. They indicate the hours of the day, the age of the moon and the position of the planets and the tides. When the clock strikes the hour two companies of horsemen fully armed dash out of gateways in opposite directions and charge vigorously. They strike with their lances as they pass as many times as correspond with the number of the hour. A little distance away, seated on a high perch, is a quaint figure, which kicks the quarters on two bells placed beneath his feet and strikes the hours on a bell. The dial of the clock is divided into twenty-four hours and shows the phases of the moon and a map of the universe.—
Harper's.

He Made Them Listen.
Beldier, the old vigilante leader of Montana, was elected sheriff of Lewis and Clark county, in which Helena is situated. During Beldier's incumbency the jail was rebuilt and one of the new fashioned steel cages
for the prisoners installed. Beldier invited all the notables down to see the cage when it was completed. The governor and the state and city officials and many prominent citizens accepted the invitation. "X" took them into a cage and excused himself for a minute. He went out and locked the door. Then he took a chair and sat down outside.

"Now, dern ye," he said to the imprisoned notables, "ye've bin edgin' off lately when I was tellin' my stories of the old days an' not listenin' to 'em.
Now I reckon ye'll listen."
He kept them there three hours—until he had told his whole budget of tales.—Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

Max O'Rell's Reply.
Max O'Rell at a dinner in Montreal
at which were present English, Scotch, Irish and French was asked to give his opinion of the different races.
Here is the answer he gave on the instant.

"The Scotchman," he said, and he climbed his right hand lightly and pretended to try to force it open with his left. "The Englishman"—And he went through the same performance, opening the hand at the end after an apparent struggle. "The Irishman"—
And he held out his hand wide open,
with the palm upward. "The Frenchman"—And he made a motion with both hands as if he were emptying them on the table.

There was not a word of explanation, but all understood thoroughly and had a hearty laugh.

A Good Shot.
A sportsman of great imaginative
gifts and fond of telling his exploits related that at one shot he had brought down two partridges and a hare. His explanation was that, although he had only hit one partridge,
the bird in falling had clutched at another partridge and brought that to earth entangled in its claws.
"But how about the hare?" he was asked.
"Oh," was the calm reply, "my gun kicked and knocked me backward,
and I fell on the hare as it ran past!"

An Old Christmas Law.
The general court of Massachusetts Bay Colony, following the example of the English parliament, in 1659 enacted a law that "anybody who is found observing, by abstinence from labor, feasting or any other way, any such day as Christmas day shall pay for every such offense 5 shillings." This law was repealed in 1681.

It Got Warmer.
Little Willie—Say, pa, doesn't it get colder when the thermometer falls?
Pa—Yes, my son. Little Willie—Well, ours has fallen. Pa—How far? Little Willie—About five feet, and when it struck the hall floor it broke."

On the Trail.
"I'm gunning for railroads," announced the trust buster.
"Then come with me," whispered the near humorist. "I can show you some of the tracks."—Brooklyn Life.

He Was Immune.
Howell—Her laugh is contagious.
Powell—Well, I was in no danger of catching it. She was laughing at me.

Jefferson Davis and His Nerves.

Jefferson Davis shrunk from the sight of every form of suffering, even in imagination. When the "Habeas in the Wood" was first read to him, a grown man, in time of illness, he would not endure the horror of it. His sympathy with the oppressed was almost abnormal, "so that," says Mrs. Davis, "it was a difficult matter to keep order with children and servants." All this shows that he was nervous, sensitive, which is a terrible handicap to a leader of men. He suffered always from nervous dyspepsia and neuralgia and "came home from his office fasting, a mere mass of throbbing nerves and perfectly exhausted." He was keenly susceptible to the atmosphere about him, especially to the moods of people, "abnormally sensitive to disapproval. Even a child's disapproval discomposed him." And Mrs. Davis admits that this sensitiveness and acute feeling of being misjudged made him reserved and unapproachable. It made him touchy as to his dignity also, and there are stories of his cherishing a grudge for some insignificant or imagined slight and punishing the author of it.—Gammaliel Bradford, Jr., in Atlantic.

Irving and His Money.

John Hare, the English actor, said that one of the failings charged to Irving's account was that of extravagance—that he did not know the value of money. It is quite true he did not know the value of money for himself, but he knew its value to others. He knew its value to the poor and helpless, and to these he gave with a lavish hand.

Once, not long before his death, playing a three nights' engagement in an unpretentious midland town, his habit was to drive nightly to the theater (a very short distance from his hotel) in the same dilapidated fly. The fare was a shilling. The conveyance was shabby, the driver old, poor and worn out. At the conclusion of the engagement, on entering his hotel, Irving said to the landlady, "Have you paid the cabman?" "Yes, Sir Henry." "What did you give him for himself?" "I gave him half a crown, Sir Henry." "Give him a sovereign," was the rejoinder; "he drives very well, and he doesn't drive often."

The Myth of the Doones.

How largely Mr. Binckley drew upon his imagination for the story of "Lorna Doone" is made clear by F. W. Rackwood in his book, "The Good Old Times." There were, in fact, no Doones. The word was simply a local bogey, a modified form of "Dane," a memory of the faroff times when the vikings roamed the land. "The only vestige of actually discoverable fact is a faint tradition that a fugitive from the battle of Sedgemoor, to escape the hangings of Judge Jeffreys, appropriated the ruins of some wretched huts in recesses of the Badworthy glen, now 'the Doon valley,' finding there a safe retreat in which he reared a considerable family, which managed to eke out a living by committing petty depredations in the district. The last of the Doones, an old man and his granddaughter, are said to have perished in the snow during the winter of 1800."

Joy In Store For Some One.

Among the advertisements in a monthly magazine we find this:

For Sale or Exchange—A fine young male bobcat and a female coyote; also a mandolin and pair of fieldglasses.

Such opportunities as this are not often offered. The fieldglasses most of us could manage to do without, but the male bobcat, the female coyote and the mandolin would go far to make life happy for any reasonable individual. All these are productive of music, and music gives joy to all right-constituted persons. There are, of course, some people who cannot play upon a mandolin, but anybody can play upon a bobcat or a coyote. This fine chance to get a varied and interesting collection of musical instruments—will undoubtedly bring many replies.—Rochester Union and Advertiser.

The Laziest People.

There is no doubt that the Malays are among the laziest people in the world. Except in rare cases they will not take the trouble to learn when they are young, and afterward, if they have learned, they will not exert themselves to apply their knowledge to any object which requires a sustained effort. That they possess effort is known to any one who has seen Malays engaged in any enterprise which savors of sport. They do not mind the trouble if there is only some risk and excitement in the work.—Times of Malaya.

A Marked Judge.

The descriptive reporter of a certain daily paper in describing the turning of a dog out of court by order of the bench recently detailed the occurrence as follows: "The ejected canine as he was ignominiously dragged from the room cast a glance at the judge for the purpose of being able to identify him at some future time."

Work of Providence.

"The man died eating watermelons," some one said to Brother Dickey. "Yes, sah," he said. "Providence sometimes puts us in paradise before we get to heaven."—Atlanta Constitution.

Unspeakable.

"What would you think, daddy, if Algeron Nocsah should suggest being conung your son-in-law?" "Withdraw, my dear, while I think aloud."—Brooklyn Life.

WOMEN'S CLUBS NEWS

The C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands will meet on Feb. 20 with Mrs. Warren White of Rock Lodge road.

The Anahurdale Review Club will hold its meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 21st, at 10.30 in the Congregational chapel Mrs. George Perry Morris will read George Bernard Shaw's "Major Barbara."

On Tuesday evening Feb. 21, Mr. A. P. Walker will give a talk before the Newtonville Woman's Guild on "The Domestic Life of George and Martha Washington" to which the gentlemen are invited.

The regular meeting of the Social Science Club will be omitted on account of the holiday.

—Prof. Bliss Perry will speak before the Newton Centre Woman's Club at its monthly meeting on Feb. 23, subject, "American Newspapers and Magazines."

The Waltham Woman's Club invites all interested to attend a district Art Conference to be held under the auspices of the State Federation Art Department at the Universalist church, Main street, Waltham, on Friday, Feb. 24, at 2 P. M.

On Friday, February 24, the West Newton Women's Educational Club will hold a meeting in charge of the club house committee, Mrs. A. H. Clifford, chairman. A chafing dish luncheon will be served at one o'clock to which members may invite friends. At two-thirty representatives of leading Massachusetts clubs will tell their experiences in securing club houses.

The members of the Newton Centre Woman's Club had a rare treat in the lecture given last Thursday by Mr. Herbert W. Gleason upon "The Canadian Rockies." Mr. Gleason's pictures are remarkably beautiful.

On Friday afternoon, Feb. 10, the West Newton Women's Educational Club entertained the presidents and secretaries of neighboring clubs. After a short luncheon meeting the afternoon was given over to the music committee, Mrs. Walter A. Beedle, chairman. The musical program included instrumental selections by a trio composed of Rudolph C. Ringwall, violinist, Miss Virginia Stickney, cellist, Herbert W. Ringwall, pianist, songs by Margaret Withers, soprano, and readings by Anna Spencer Frost, accompanied by Miss Jean Stanley. The selections were of high order and much enjoyed by all present. A social hour followed the music during which the president, Mrs. T. M. Ellwell, and other officers received the guests. The decorations consisting of palms, jonquils and violets were unusually attractive. Two flower girls, Miss Dorothy Farnham and Miss Ruth Beedle, distributed jonquils to each guest. The reception was in charge of Mrs. Harry S. Wells, chairman, and the tea room under the direction of Mrs. Fred Young of the hospitality committee. Those who poured were Mrs. A. B. Moore, Mrs. Hill of Wellesley, Mrs. Henry Young and Mrs. Robert Gorton.

At the meeting of the Newton Highlands Monday Club on Feb. 13 the study of Victor Hugo was begun. There were papers upon his life and on "Santime." Next week the regular meeting will be omitted and instead the club will present a social hour followed by the music committee. The program will be given in the Congregational church parlors at 2.30 on Feb. 20. The program announced for that date will be given on Feb. 27.

The Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. met with Mrs. Hayward on Monday afternoon and continued its study of American Artists. Several short papers were presented. Winslow Homer and John LaFarge being among the artists.

The members of the Waban Woman's Club consider themselves particularly favored in being able to have upon their program each year a lecture by Mr. Pietro Isola, a resident of Waban, "The Arts and Cathedrals of Spain" was the subject treated by him on Monday afternoon, Feb. 13. It was illustrated with wonderfully fine lantern slides and the accompanying informal lecture presented the tragic art of Spain both architecturally and on the canvas. Both architecturally and on the canvas, he said, our modern painters owe much, both in the treatment of rich tone color and in the wonderful light and atmospheric effects plainly visible even to the untrained eye.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning, Miss Frances G. Curtis, a member of the State Board of Charity, gave a comprehensive account of the work that is being done under the supervision of that Board. The organization of the Board goes back some fifty years to the time of Dr. Samuel G. Howe. He was asked by Gov. Andrew to look into the conditions of the poor and to make recommendations regarding their relief. His investigations are even to day considered as a model method of treatment. In this report he advised a State Board of Charity. This was organized and in the second year of its existence Dr. Howe became a member and later was its chairman. Afterwards the State Board of Health was established, which took away certain work from the Charity Board, and still later the State Board of Lunacy.

Among the institutions which come under the direction of the State Board of Charity at present are, the State Farm at Tewksbury, the State Farm at Bridgewater, the Lyman and Industrial Schools, the State Sanatoria, the probation work of the State, and supervision of the Charitable institutions.

Miss Curtis dwelt particularly upon the work for the children. She stated that Massachusetts has the best reform schools in the country and that the state has anything like the body of visitors in homes rather than keeping them in institutions was vindicated at a conference held in Washington during Mr. Roosevelt's term and the resolution passed.

BAD FIRE.

The alarm from box 263 this noon was for a fire in the new transformer station of the Edison Electric Co. on

tion passed advocated the Massachusetts system, although it could not be so designated. She stated that the Russell Sage Foundation is making a study of the placing out system, and while its report has not yet been made public, it has been told that it has found that the greater per cent of the children have turned out well.

The club was urged to send representatives to the National Conference of Charities and Correction to be held in Boston, June 7-14.

An account of the Legislation Conference is postponed till next week.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME.

Two hearings of interest this week to Newton residents were held Wednesday by the Metropolitan Affairs committee. The bill to authorize the construction of a boulevard between Watertown and West Roxbury was favored by ex-representative E. B. Bishop, Mr. J. D. Colt, Mr. R. M. Saltonstall of Chestnut Hill and Mr. H. J. eKlaway of Newton Centre and was opposed by the city of Boston.

The report of the metropolitan park commission, favoring this project and estimating the cost at $500,000 was also filed this week. At the request of City Solicitor Slocum the hearing was held open awaiting action by the Newton aldermen. The hearing on construction of a new bridge over the Charles river at Commonwealth avenue was also held open at the request of Mr. Slocum.

At the hearing of the Newton Centre, and Rev. C. B. Butters D. D. of Newton were at the hearing to give Boston University an annual grant of $20,000. This bill was opposed by the trustees of the college and favored by outsiders, so that an unfavorable report may be expected. The hearing to compel street railway companies to limit employment of men to 9 and 11 hours, and known as the 9-11 bill was heard Wednesday afternoon and attracted a large audience. Mr. C. A. Sylvester of the local company was a remonstrant. At the hearing Wednesday on the various measures to allow sports on Sunday, and a determined opposition to modify our present blue laws was manifested. The subject is one on which there is great divergence of opinion although it is doubtful if satisfactory legislation can be reached for many years. In the meantime, golf, tennis and ball players will commit misdemeanors on the Lord's Day, and public opinion will prevent the police from doing their full duty. The present laws are a farce. Why not meet the situation fairly and decently?

The Middlesex County members of the legislature will hold their annual dinner at the American House on Feb. 28th. Representative White of this city is a member of the committee on arrangements.

The bill to require pay rolls in cities to be sworn to by the head of the department has reached enactment, and will soon become a law. The measure was recommended by the civil service commission and is intended to unmask evasions of the civil service law.

A hearing will be held next Thursday by the committee on cities on a bill to allow police officers one day off in every fifteen days instead of one day in every thirty as at present. If this bill be comes a law it will require two additional officers to meet the time thus given, and would cost the city $173,450, the first year and increasing to $219,000 for the third and subsequent years.

Representative Ellis dissents from the report of the committee on Inspection of Milk, of which he is a member, in the recommendation establishing a state milk board. Mr. Ellis believes that the milk laws should be administered by a division of the state board of health. What Mr. Ellis does in the milk question will be accepted as gospel truth by most of the citizens of Newton.

HIGH SCHOOL SCHOLARSHIP.

A committee, consisting of the undersigned citizens of Newton, has been formed to secure the establishment of a Newton High Schools' scholarship in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, on terms substantially as follows:

The amount of the Institute tuition, $250.00 per year, is to be secured by voluntary subscriptions from residents in Newton. The recipient of the scholarship shall be a graduate of one of the Newton High Schools. The award shall be made as an honorable recognition of personal merit and of high scholarship, particularly in science and mathematics, and shall not imply pecuniary need. A recipient may, however, if he so elects, accept the title of Newton Scholar, without the financial grant, which will then return to the endowment fund referred to below or it may be awarded to another deserving applicant.

Awards shall be made for one year, with the expectation that recipient needing aid after their first year in the Institute will be assisted from its ordinary Scholarship funds.

It will be the aim of the committee to secure as soon as practicable an endowment fund of $6000 for the permanent maintenance of this scholarship.

It is believed that the establishment of the scholarship will have particular and important advantages for the Newton High Schools and for those of its students who look forward to technological education.

This scholarship has the approval and endorsement of his Honor Mayor Hatfield, Mr. Spaulding, Superintendent of Newton Schools, The Newton School Committee and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

In order to provide the endowment funds for this scholarship, the committee requests pledges from citizens who are interested in the welfare of Newton young men, the Newton High Schools and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The school hockey game at the Twin Elms Carnival at Lexington Saturday afternoon between Arlington High and Newton High was a hard fought game from start to finish and resulted in a victory for Newton by the score of 4 to 2. Both teams played their best, as a large silver cup was the offering. Newton showed that it could come back, as Arlington had won a game played previously.

Newton was the first team to score, and it was largely to the credit of Rice, as he dribbled the puck through the entire Arlington team and shot a pretty goal. The second goal scored was made by Hadley of Arlington, who shot the puck into his own goal during a scrimmage.

Consens shot the first goal for Arlington, while Newton shot its third goal of the period just before the end of the first half, the puck being caged by Spaulding.

At the start of the second half, Arlington's forwards started off as though they would score at least six goals, but the fine defensive work of Burns, Rice and Peckham stopped most of their rushes. Hadley being the only man to score for his side in this period.

Newton made its score four in this period.

The girls basket ball team was beaten 26 to 13 Tuesday at Wellesley by the local team.

At the close of the first period Wellesley was leading, 9 to 4. In the second period Wellesley made four points, while Newton added only one.

In the third period Wellesley scored 12 and Newton 8. Miss Mary Sheridan, who recently made 18 goals from the floor against Melrose high, caged eight baskets. Miss Paine's all-round playing was conspicuous for Newton. She scored 9 of the 13 points for her team.

An interesting talk on "Vocations for Girls" was given by Mrs. Bertrand E. Taylor of Newton Centre, at the Newton Technical High School on Friday morning.

Mrs. Taylor told of the great number of vocations now open to girls, and advised her hearers as to the qualities that are necessary for success in any vocation. Mrs. Polhemus told how a girl met an emergency with success. The next talk in this series will be given February 21, when Mrs. Wallace E. Boyden of Newtonville will speak upon "The Life and Work of Florence Nightingale."

A most interesting talk on the life and work of Florence Nightingale was given by Mrs. Wallace E. Boyden last Monday morning to a special class of girls at the Newton Technical High School. This was the first of a number of talks on nursing and other vocations that are to be given to this class. Mrs. Boyden presented her subject in a most attractive manner and held the close attention of the girls throughout her address.

Washington's Birthday was observed at the Classical High school Tuesday morning by a program including an address by Bowman Atkins, stories by Harvard Calder, a recitation by Miss Esther Pratt, a declamation by Philip Woodbridge, an address by Miss Olive Titus and a recitation by Miss Wheaton.

SCHOOL TEACHER BURIED.

At Peacham, Vt., her native town, funeral services were held Sunday for Miss Elizabeth C. Clark, a member of the teaching staff of the Newton High School, who succumbed to an attack of pneumonia. The body was buried in the cemetery at Peacham. Miss Clark was the daughter of Mrs. E. W. Clark and lived at 97 Floral street, Newton Highlands. She was thirty-eight years old and was a graduate of Mt. Holyoke Seminary, in the class of 1897. She formerly taught in the Northampton High School, but came to Newton eight years ago. In the latter place she was prominent in the science department as a teacher of biology and physics. Miss Clark was the joint author of a book "Simple Problems in Elementary Physics" and was a member of the New England Association of Chemistry Teachers.

ALBEMARLE GOLF.

The annual meeting of the Albemarle golf club of Newtonville was held at its clubhouse Monday night. Officers for the ensuing year were elected, and other business transacted. John G. Anderson of the Woodland G. C. of Auburndale offered a cup for a ringer tournament, which was accepted.

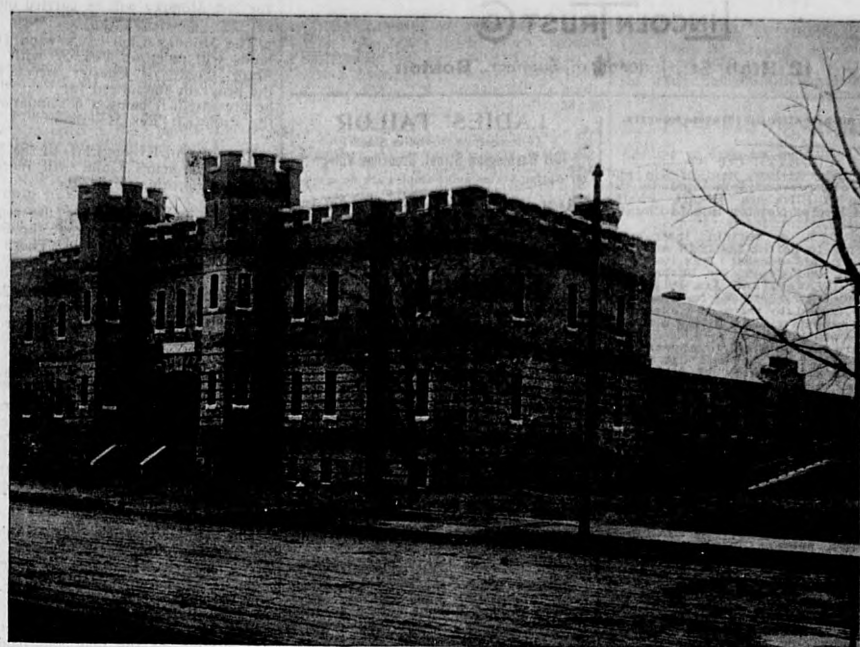

The reports of the treasurer, secretary and house committee were read, showing the club to be free of debt and in a most flourishing condition. During the past year the club has had more than 100 active members and 17 associate members, and during the coming year it expects to add many members to its roll.

Improvements on the course and clubhouse, which were started in the fall, will be kept up this spring, and the course will be materially lengthened. These officers were elected: C. E. Avery, club; J. L. Stearns vice pro; H. P. Beal, treasurer; C. E. Stearns sec.; W. H. Rogers, Col. E. Stearns F. M. Copeland, C. S. Avery, C. H. Simons, F. T. Benner, C. B. Somers, F. J. Fessenden, H. M. Gordon and C. C. Briggs, directors.

Joseph Jefferson appreciated the charm of the custom of drinking to one's health, for he wrote: "Your liberal present has been received, and I beg to thank you for your thoughtful courtesy. I am a great believer in Geneva (Fountain) Water. I can assure you in it I will drink your health as well as my own."

The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. George Agry, Miss Clara J. Coburn, Mrs. Edward J. Cox, Mrs. John F. Barnes, Mrs. Chas. S. Ensign, Miss A. Gertrude Ensign.

THE NEW ARMORY OF COMPANY C

AN HONEST CITIZEN.

There has passed from our midst a citizen of Newton of foreign birth who has ranked among the best of the citizens of our town. He was an Armenian by birth and pursued a humble vocation in which he showed qualities of the highest rank. He was honest, industrious, thrifty, hard-working, law-abiding, true as steel, generous and sympathetic. His daily life was founded on the highest principles, and he had no vices. Every one around Nonantum Square knew "John", as he was called, and respected him. His name was Hammarson Shakarian. About a month ago, after struggling with disease since the early summer he went to the State Sanatorium at No. Reading and there he passed beyond the bounds of Time yesterday leaving a wife, two young children and many friends to mourn and regret his loss.

Newton is the poorer for his taking-off for he was an example of the highest integrity to all who had the privilege of knowing him.

Would that we could have saved you, John, from harm and disease but it could not be. The struggle is over and there is left to us only the precious memory of an honest man who lived an upright life.

If there are crowns in the next world for those who enter it, his will be a resplendent one.

I. W. H.
February 22.

D. R.

The Sarah Hull Chapter, D. R. held a meeting on Feb. 14th at the Newton Club, Newtonville. After the usual business hour a fine address was given by Rev. H. Grant Person on Abraham Lincoln, stirring to the hearts all who heard him as he pictured his wonderful life and character.

Musical selections were rendered by Miss Faim of Newtonville.

The thought of Lincoln was still further carried out by the ingenious decoration, by one of the Committee, of the dining table with a perfect low cabin centre piece, rail fence and other patriotic decorations.

LODGES.

The many Masons in Newton will be interested to learn that a large number of the fraternity representing various lodges in the Greater Boston district met last Tuesday evening at the Crawford House in Boston, for the purpose of forming in Boston a Grotto of the Mystic Order Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm. The meeting was under dispensation of the supreme body and Alfred Anderson, PHP of the Royal Arch chapter of the Shekinah, of Chelsea, was unanimously elected monarch.

These grottoes are becoming popular throughout the country, for they admit of the broadening of good fellowship among the members. This particular one named Omar, promises to be of quick growth, judging from the number of applications received beyond the charter list. Within 30 days another session will be called, at which time it is expected that the ritualistic work will be performed in full. Arrangements are being made to visit Allethia grotto of Worcester, in March. It has been in operation since 1905.

After the meeting, the newly made prophets held a banquet and enjoyed a general entertainment.

A whist party and dance will be held, under the auspices of Newton Lodge, A. O. U. W., in Nonantum hall, Newton, Tuesday evening, Feb. 28th.

A George Washington invitation party under the auspices of Tennyson Rebekah Lodge, I. O. O. F., was held Tuesday evening in Old Fellow's hall, West Newton. Dancing was enjoyed by the members and guests. Music, Cole's orchestra.

"PRINCE OF WALES" VIOLETS.

(To Edgar M. Daniels.)

These are the flowers of purple passion,
Fit for the jeweled breast of a Queen!
I do not dwell in the Courts of Fashion;

Better for me, were the wild-flow'rs I wren.

Mine be the blossoms of field and wildwood.

Fanned by the free winds all the day long.

Oh, for the flow'rs—and the hearts, of our childhood!

Yet, for these Violets—I send you a Song.

Elizabeth Jacobi.

A regular meeting of the Newton Ladies Home Circle will be held in G. A. R. Hall, Newtonville, on Thursday, March 2nd, Social hour at 2 o'clock, business meeting at 2.30. The regular meeting of the Auburndale Review Club was held at the Congregational chapel on Tuesday morning, Feb. 21. After a piano solo by Mrs. Nelson, pianist, Mrs. George Perry Morris read Bernard Shaw's "Major Barbara." Mrs. Morris gave a sympathetic presentation of the play and held the attention of her audience closely throughout.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM CONFERENCE.

By invitation of the Watertown Woman's Club a conference on Civil Service Reform will be held in the Unitarian Building, Church street, Watertown, on Thursday, March 2, at 2.15 P. M.

It is expected that Charles Warren of the Massachusetts Civil Service Commission will speak, also Miss A. Murphy of Framingham, who will tell of her method of teaching civil government, good citizenship and the merit system. Discussion followed by a social hour with the hostess club.

On Monday afternoon at the Congregational church chapel at Newton Highlands Mrs. Roy B. Guild spoke upon "The Passion Play of 1910." To this lecture the members of the Monday Club and also the C. L. S. C. were invited and a large number attended in spite of the inclement weather.

Mrs. Guild conducted her hearers to the little mountain village of Oberammergau and to the homes of some of the players. A description of the play itself was given, illustrated by the official slides.

The Newtonville Woman's Guild entertained the gentlemen at its meeting on the evening of February 21st. Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Adams, Mrs. Adams being president of the club, assisted by Mr. A. F. Walker, the speaker of the evening, received the guests as they arrived. After the reception Mr. Walker gave a most interesting account of "The Domestic Life of George and Martha Washington." A colonial minuet was danced by eight young people in costume. Refreshments were served at the close. Some three hundred were in attendance and all found it a most enjoyable occasion.

The program for the meeting that was postponed on Feb. 6 will be given on March 14. It will include a talk by Miss Miriam Kimball upon "The Evolution of Dancing" illustrated by dances.

CONSERVATION CONFERENCE.

A conference of the Conservation Department of the Massachusetts State Federation was held at the New England Women's Club rooms, Boston, on Thursday, Feb. 16, Mrs. F. H. Tucker, chairman of the Department, called the meeting to order and presided during the afternoon. It had been planned that this conference should be a conference pure and simple and so no outside speakers had been secured, but instead the clubs were invited to send in practical questions upon various phases of the work included under the subject of Conservation. The clubs responded cordially and a large number of very practical questions were received. Some of these furnished the basis of discussion, although several kindred ones came up in the course of the afternoon.

Before proceeding to the order of the day, however, Mrs. Tucker took occasion of allude to the passage of the Weeks bill by the United States Senate on the previous day. The general feeling of rejoicing over the success of this measure gave a note of encouragement to the whole conference. Mrs. Tucker stated that we must not feel that all is accomplished, for in reality the passage of this bill is merely the beginning.

Miss Helen A. Ball of Worcester spoke to the question, "Is there any bird life in the English sparrow?" Mrs. Ball said that she knew of none and it is quite common to find the bird houses occupied by either English sparrows or by squirrels. She told how Dr. Hodge of Worcester has succeeded in keeping the English sparrows down by shooting or poisoning them in a painless manner. Miss Ball then said she wanted to make a plea for a rational consideration of the English sparrow. In its native haunts it is not the disagreeable creature it has become on this side of the water. It breeds more rapidly than any of our native birds and is more hardy, but if it can be kept down to reasonable numbers it will not drive away the native birds. Owls and hawks, she said, have been considered the enemies of the farmer and have been immediately disposed of, but experience has taught us that certain kinds are valuable in keeping down destructive insects. She recommended that if anything is done toward disposing of the English sparrows that it be done by the proper authorities. Mrs. F. B. Hornby, another member of the committee, touched upon the same subject and then enlisted the interest of the club women in preventing the passage of any bill which will remove any of the protection of the wild fowl and ducks now in force. She also spoke of the need of protection of robins, saying that their numbers are steadily diminishing.

The subject of shade trees and their protection and care was next considered. A question was asked as to how to prevent the electric companies from damaging them with their wires and if it is possible to compel them to be placed under ground? The chairman advised a consultation with the town authorities and if possible to get them to labor with these companies. One corporation was obliged to pay $100 fine for illegal cutting of shade trees. The delegates were referred to the Massachusetts Forestry Association at Joy street, Boston, and to the State Forester at 6 Beacon street, Boston, for advice and any needed information.

For proper treatment of diseased or broken trees the chairman referred the ladies to the Handbook just published by the Department. Tree surgery, she stated, is closely allied to dentistry and the treatment of a tree having a large cavity is much the same as that of a decayed tooth. The cavity should be thoroughly cleaned out until none of the diseased portion remains, then treated with an antiseptic and filled with elastic cement. Shade trees should be kept just as long as they are beautiful and are not a menace to passers-by. Forest trees would not be thus treated. All this work, however, should be done by experts. It was asked, "How can wardens be made to do these things?" The answer given was, "Educate the community. A public spirited committee can do wonders in a community."

Under the subject of waste, the prodigal use of paper was touched upon and it was stated that the time is really coming when we shall be forced to resort to the old-fashioned methods of saving all the paper that comes into the house.

Forest fires another source of waste, burn up every year three and one-half times as much wood as is used. We must educate the lumbermen. Another menace to the forests are the railroads. They are showing themselves at present to be very ready to co-operate. The New Haven system has recently equipped with petroleum its engines running on the "Cape" regions. Laws for further protection are needed.

The water supply was next spoken of. In this connection some description of the municipal forest established by Fall River was given. This forest protects the water supply of the city. They own at present about 2000 acres and are to buy one thousand more. Last year 50 acres were planted. For re-forestation purposes there is necessity of enlarging the State nurseries. The white pine comes in easiest in Massachusetts soil.

Miss Mary C. Sweet of Lawrence told the experience of her city in purifying its water supply through a system of filters at its source devised by Prof. Sedgwick.

A fact not generally known relative to water supply is that there exists below the surface of the earth an immense sea of water from 16 to 96 feet deep. This is our great source of supply and it like the coal is becoming exhausted. This fact explains why many wells which have never before gone dry have done so in recent years. How to prevent this is a question that brings us right back to the forests. By protecting them the water will gradually sink in and in time replenish this underground supply. As in so many other phases of conservation it comes right back to the forests. Protect them and the other desired ends follow.

A message of congratulation was sent from the conference to Congressman Weeks upon the passage of his bill.

After a few exchanges of experiences relative to orcharding and particularly in the treatment of apple trees the conference adjourned.

All present felt that it had been most helpful and that the subjects are keenly alive and vital.

Seated at the head table was Dr. G. M. Winslow, the principal, who represented George Washington and Mrs. Winslow, who represented Martha Washington. The costumes of the young ladies were unusually pretty. During the dinner an orchestra played patriotic airs. Following the dinner the girls gathered in the gymnasium where sixteen young ladies under the direction of Miss Nellie Varner, dancer the minute.

THEATRES

Park Theatre—If there is one set of people who should fully understand "The Commuters", James Forbes' comedy of thousands of laughs now playing to crowded houses at the Park Theatre, Boston, it is that great army which daily commutes between Boston and its various suburbs. Not only because the play is clean and amusing and acted exceptionally well by a cast of clever people, but that they, being loyal commuters themselves can so thoroughly appreciate its truly human side. It is a very simple tale. Mr. and Mrs. Larry Brice live in a charmingly dull spot near New York. They are surrounded by their friends and have their own front yard and veranda. From this pastoral scene Larry Brice occasionally wanders. On one specific evening he returns to his dovecot with a distinctly alcoholic atmosphere, and he brings with him a bachelor friend, Sammie Fletcher, whom his wife dislikes before she meets him. In the hurry of catching his usual seven-ten the next morning, he forgets Fletcher, who bursts upon the startled Mrs. Brice from her guest chamber some time after her husband's departure. This unfortunate "Sammie" who is a very prince of good fellows, is buffeted about, and scolded and talked to through the remainder of the play. The plot is remarkably brisk and amusing and laughs chase each other from curtain to curtain. There are the young married neighbors at the Brices, the parlor maid, the village policeman and so on.

B. F. Keith's Theatre—Gertrude Hoffman at B. F. Keith's Theatre is proving one of the biggest drawing cards that popular playhouse has ever had. For the coming week Miss Hoffman will vary her program considerably, one of the new features being a gorgeous production of Mendelssohn's "Spring Song," with a beautiful stage setting and light effects, and the wood nymph and wonderful music that has proved one of the biggest hits in her entire repertoire. Such popular features as the bathing girls, the bell girls, etc., will be retained and an exceptionally strong surrounding bill has been provided. One of the features will be the return to Boston of J. K. Murray and Clara Lane in a musical sketch called "A Quiet Honeymoon." On the same bill will be a New York Hippodrome attraction, Hodervold's Simian Jockeys, a troupe of trained monkeys that ride horses. Other features are Hawthorne and Burt the Hebrew comedians in a new sketch, Van Hoven, the mad magician, Eddie Mack and Dot Williams in a comedy sketch, and the Dennis Brothers in hair raising feats on the revolving ladder.

Colonial Theatre—At the Colonial Theatre, Boston, on Monday, February 27th for a limited engagement Jos. M. Gaites will present the new musical play "The Girl of My Dreams." There will be a large cast of principals, headed by that clever team Johnny Hymns and Lela McIntyre. Miss McIntyre has always been regarded as one of the cleverest comedienne, as Lucy Melders, a little Quakeress, on her first visit to a city, she presents a character at once amusing and altogether human. The humor is extremely pleasing and entertaining, and the music is not only high class, but exceedingly catchy and melodious. Besides the principals Mr. Gaites will bring to the Colonial a chorus of young women who have never yet had to ask the services of a beauty doctor. "The Girl of My Dreams" is said to be one of its most attractive features.

LIEBLER & CO.

The firm of Liebler & Co., who are responsible for the production of the famous newspaper play "The Fourth Estate" now playing at the Shubert Theatre, Boston to crowded houses, today is considered by theatrical experts to be the greatest producing firm in the world, and the name of this organization as sponsor for any attraction has come to be regarded in the world of the stage as a guarantee of its merit.

To those on the inside, Liebler & Co. principally is George C. Tyler, and it is Mr. Geo. C. Tyler who is America's greatest producing manager. Every season since Mr. Tyler entered the theatrical field he has produced from twelve to fifteen new and original plays. His record in bringing out new plays is approached by no other man in the theatrical business. This may seem like a broad statement, but really, Mr. Tyler is a broad man. He works along unique lines. When a play is offered to Mr. Tyler he judges the play absolutely upon its merits. An unknown author may have his play read by Mr. Tyler, because it has been his particular effort to develop talent from the unknown and to seek the new from the harvest of the world rather than pursue the policy of purchasing plays which have received the stamp of London, Paris or Berlin successes. The merit of the play alone counts with him. And often he is of great assistance to an author in writing a play, supplying the technique gained by experience which a new author is so often in need of.

ENTERTAINS CHILDREN.

Mrs. Alvin R. Bailey, State director of the societies of the Children of the American Revolution, gave a Washington's Birthday party Monday afternoon in the Lighthouse Studios, Copley Square, for the members of the organization and for the D. A. R. The rooms were decorated with large flags, and the tea table with small flags, and hatchets and a miniature cherry tree in the center. A special feature was the singing of the "Washington Song" by Miss Isabelle Worcester. The words were written by Mrs. Jane Erminia Locke, mother of Mrs. Grace Le Baron Upham of Boston, for a Washington's Birthday celebration in Buffalo in 1832. Other numbers on the programme were selections by Miss Mildred Keefe, pianist, president of the Signal Lantern Society; by Misses Elizabeth and Josephine Gorman, violinists; Miss Isabel Gorman, cellist, all members of the First Free School Society, C. A. R., and Miss Caroline Blake Creed, pianist. The players were in charge of Mrs. William B. Rand of Dorchester, director of the First Free School Society. The pourers were Miss Meserve, president of the Joanna Sparhawk Society, C. A. R., and Mrs. Turner Hodgden of the Signal Lantern Society, C. A. R. They were assisted by a group of young girls, members of the different societies.

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt.

The Club Editor has just received a copy of the "Handbook of Conservation" issued by the Department of Conservation of the State Federation. Its purpose as set forth in the introductory chapter is "to present an orderly series of suggestive topics upon Conservation of our Natural Resources, and to furnish explanatory comment upon the various phases of the subject. It endeavors to answer briefly but clearly the questions, What and why is Conservation? and What can we do about it?" After a general outline of the natural resources, there are separate chapters upon ores and minerals, lands and soils, waters, forests, birds and shade trees. The suggestive outlines with the helpful comments and quotations from eminent authorities should prove of great service to the clubs in studying these vital matters. The committee are to be congratulated upon the result of their labors for the volume is a work of art in all senses of the term.

Three cheers for the United States Senate on the passage of the Weeks bill!

LEGISLATIVE CONFERENCE.

On Saturday afternoon, Feb. 11, members of the federated clubs met at the New England Women's Club rooms for a Legislative Conference. Mrs. Nellie K. Rich, chairman of the committee on Legislative Affairs presided over the session. The matters considered were those endorsed by the State Federation at its meeting on Feb. 3rd.

The first to be presented was the Weeks bill then before Congress and to be voted on by the Senate on Feb. 15. Mr. Philip W. Ayres, State Forester for New Hampshire, spoke for the bill paying high tribute to the effective work which has been done by the women's clubs and other organizations on behalf of the passage of this bill. He said that this bill inaugurates a new policy in the country in the acquiring of lands by the government by purchase. Hitherto the national forests have all been established upon land already owned by the government.

The next matter considered was House Bill 492, known as the Night Messenger bill. A hearing upon this bill will occur on March 1st at 10.30. Richard K. Conant, secretary of the Massachusetts Child Labor Committee, explained this measure. Of the bills presented last year, he said that three out of the five passed and are now in successful operation. This measure prohibits the employment of minors under 21 in the night messenger service. The need for such a bill arises from the great amount of immorality in the night messenger service, a fact that is universally true in all cities. People in general have no conception of conditions. It is the most immoral of any employment that boys have ever been engaged in.

The clubs were urged to endorse the bill before Congress providing for the establishment of a Federal children's Bureau which shall have for its object to study into conditions and report upon them. It is estimated that one million children under sixteen are now at work in this country. In connection with the bill Dr. Lucas of the Children's Hospital spoke upon some of the causes of infant mortality, a subject into which this bureau would if established make investigations. The chief causes, Dr. Lucas stated, are poverty, ignorance and neglect. In a small proportion of cases of mortality they would be little influenced by treatment, then there is another group where mortality is capable of considerable reduction by proper care. And a third group which might be very greatly reduced through a proper milk supply and proper feeding. One difficulty which has been met with is to get the milk into the baby in good condition, even if it starts from the milk station all right.

Richard Bradley of the Massachusetts Milk Consumers' Association presented the milk bill, House Bill 132, which his association has framed. Mr. Bradley stated that milk is the only food in Massachusetts not under effective control and for this bill he asked the energetic support of the clubs. The provisions of this bill place the control of the production and sale of milk under the State Board of Health. There are two other bills being presented, one divides the responsibility between the Board of Health and the Dairy Bureau, the third provides for a central committee composed of the secretary of the Board of Health, the secretary of the Board of Agriculture and the secretary of the Cattle Bureau. The bill endorsed by the Federation also provides that every vehicle shall display the name and business address of the owner and the license number, and that the milk inspectors shall be civil service appointments.

The Federation protested against all bills tending to repeal the present game laws. Edward R. Forbush, state Ornithologist, spoke on behalf of the birds and the dangers arising from any repeal of the present laws and urged the co-operation of the women in this matter. Mrs. F. B. Hornbrooke spoke of the dangers arising from careless gunners along the sea coast.

House Bill 262 relative to recording the date of reception and date of removal from cold storage of articles was briefly explained. The first hearing was to be held on Feb. 16.

The last measure presented was the bill known as the Spanish War Veterans Preference Bill. The whole history of the bill from its first introduction in 1899 was given by Mrs. Mabel Rogers Taylor, chairman of the Civil Service Reform Committee, and the clubs were urged to protest against its passage.

Mr. Warren P. Tyler of Sargent street, who celebrated his 90th birthday last week, has a brother living in Dakota at 95 years of age, and had a brother and a sister both of whom lived to be 91 years and six months old.

A family record like that is one to be proud of and is worthy of note.

That our fellow townsman may surpass them all and live to reach the century mark, is the sincere prayer of all of his many friends.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the starting of its first electric light generating station in Head place was quietly observed at the Algonquin Club Monday night by officers and employees of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company to the number of 125. The president of the company, C. L. Edgar, Vice President Walter C. Baylies, with nearly the full board of directors and heads of bureaus, occupied seats at the head table.

The tables were beautifully decorated with electric lights in flower designs; a large illuminated electric lamp bulb occupied a prominent place on the table, with illuminated reproductions of the company seal on the walls behind the head table. The special souvenirs distributed with the ices were paperweights in the form of miniature Edison bi-polar dynamos.

In commemoration of the occasion the Edison company has issued an attractive illustrated booklet, bound in noze leather, giving an historical sketch of the company, including records of its remarkable growth, together with the steady reduction in the cost of electric current to consumers, copies of which were laid beside the plates of the guests.

The historical sketch said, in part: "While the busy merchants were dreaming of the wonders which the future held in store for them a little band of workmen was actively engaged in setting up in the rear of Haymarket place a 90-horse power engine, to which were belted two Edison dynamos, capable of supplying 800 incandescent lamps, almost enough to light some of our smallest modern office buildings or furnish power for a moderate sized machine shop. When the throttle was opened and the switch closed on Feb. 20 a sweet-sounding rumble was started, which has continued unceasingly with increasing volume up to the present day. Two days later a Boston audience witnessed for the first time a theatrical performance intensified and beautified by the use of the electric light."

This was the unostentatious beginning twenty-five years ago, of the Edison Company, which has grown from a little station in Rumstead court, with an area of operation comprising a few blocks in its immediate vicinity, to a company with over 1300 employees, operating thirty stations, with a maximum capacity of 70,000 kilowatts, serving thirty-six towns and cities, aggregating 600 square miles of territory, with a population of more than 1,000,000 people.

Wall paper at fifty cents a roll may be economical, or it may not; at five cents a roll it may be expensive, or it may not. In other words, it is not HOW MUCH you spend, but WHAT YOU GET for your money. And what you get depends not so much on HOW you buy as WHERE you buy. Not an article in our store, whether furniture, curtains, papers, piece goods, upholstery, or even so small a thing as a dustless floor or wall cloth, is sold except under our personal guarantee: "All goods MUST be as represented."

Shoe Aristocracy Banished

The "Goodyear Welt" System of shoemaking machines—sixty of them—which reproduce the handicraft of the old-time shoemaker—has banished shoe aristocracy from the land—driven it out forever.

They have leveled to a common plane the footwear of an entire nation. These marvelous machines—intricate and sensitive—utilize the intelligence of skilled operators in the production of shoes that are durable and comfortable as if hand-sewed, but at only one-third the cost.

This economy permits every man, woman and child to enjoy the wonderful benefits distributed by the "Goodyear Welt" shoemaking machines. The foremost shoe manufacturers of the world employ this method in their plants.

GOODYEAR WELT
shoes for men, women, boys, girls and children are made of solid leather—they must be—for only substantial leather can be worked on these fast operating machines. Five hundred lock-stitches a minute are inserted, close, rapid and strong. Obviously cheap leather or inferior leather cannot withstand the speed of such swift flying needles. Thus "Goodyear Welt" is always a guarantee of solid, real leather. It is your insurance of wearing quality. Even the War Department recognizes this feature when it specifies the rapid Goodyear stitching as its standard in shoe contracts for the soldiers.

The feet of the Army are clad in Goodyear Welts. Shoes made by this method can withstand the severest marches. And they afford the greatest comfort. For these wonderful machines stitch the welt inner-sole and upper together in a seam that doesn't penetrate the inside of the shoe. Even the heavy outsole is lock-stitched to this welt with the seam entirely around the outer edge. The shoe is left smooth inside. Comfort is assured the soldier on his longest march.

Get this comfort for yourself. Just send us your name and address. Do it today. It brings you a list of all five hundred different names of Goodyear Welts, the shoes that are real leather and smooth inside. Some are sure to be sold right in your town. Get this list before you buy another pair of shoes. Two booklets will also be sent you free, one graphically describing the sixty machines, the other—"The Secret of The Shoe."

NEW ARMORY DEDICATED
BRILLIANT AUDIENCE GREET'S GOVERNOR FOSS

The new state armory just erected on Washington street, West Newton at a cost of $50,000 was formally dedicated last evening, in the presence of Governor Foss and the highest military officers of the Commonwealth. Fully a thousand persons, from society leaders to the more humble citizens were present to witness the ceremonies and to enjoy the program.

The building was most beautifully decorated. A picture of Columbia draped with flags and hunting occupied the wall at the rear of the stage, and red, white and blue bunting, with beautiful rosettes of flags adorned the side walls. The arched roof was filled with pale blue and white bunting, running from the sides to clusters of gathered flags in the centre, and gave a most festive appearance to the building.

A concert was given by the orchestra previous to the more formal exercises and the Governor, who was escorted to the stage by Capt. Guilford was greeted with great applause. The program included selections by the Temple quartet, and by the orchestra, an address turning the armory over to the state by Adj. General G. W. Pearson, of the Armory commission, its acceptance by Gov. Foss and turning the keys over to Capt. Guilford, and his acceptance of them. Remarks were then made by General William H. Oakes, a former commander of the Fifth regiment, by the present col. Frank F. Cutting and by Mayor Hatfield. The audience then sang one verse of the Star Spangled Banner.

Governor Foss congratulated the company and Newton on the completion of the armory, which was the 31st in the state. He favored throwing the building open to the public whenever it could be done without interference with the work of the militia.

Col. Cutting addressed his remarks to the members of the company, who stood at attention at the side of the hall, through the exercises, Mayor Hatfield gave the credit of the new armory to General Emery. He thought the Commonwealth had been more generous to the city. He admonished the company to show its appreciation of the new armory by its work for the state, the nation and the city. He said that the policy of the nation in depending on its citizen soldiery had been proved by results of the Civil and Spanish wars and urged the citizens to give more thought to what these citizen soldiers meant to the state and city.

At the conclusion of the exercises, the Governor, Mayor Hatfield, Col. Cutting and Mr. Spear, held a reception in the assembly room flanked by the members of the Governor's staff in full uniform. Guests were presented by these ushers, Col. Lombard, Col. A. C. Warren, Major Springer, Capt. Walworth, Capt. F. A. Locke, Capt. John Nichols of the Ancients, Major F. P. Barnes, Hon. H. F. Bothfield, Mr. Reuben Fournall, Mr. Richard Cunningham, Mr. W. E. Glover and Capt. F. N. Brown. At the conclusion of the reception, the grand march was held in the drill hall, headed by Capt. Guilford with Miss Martha Biewald, Gov. Foss and Mrs. Guilford.

The death of Mr. Robert Rodden occurred last Saturday afternoon at his home on Irving street. The deceased was about sixty years of age and had resided in this village for many years. Mr. Rodden was engaged in the flower business for many years. He is survived by a widow, one daughter and three sons. The funeral services were held from his late home last Tuesday afternoon, the Rev. E. M. Noyes pastor of the First church officiating. The interment was in the Walnut Hill Cemetery.

General Pearson and Mrs. Edes, and Mayor Hatfield with Mrs. Lombard. About 125 couples took part in the march, and as most of the gentlemen were in full military dress it was an interesting spectacle. Dancing followed until two o'clock. Among those present besides those already mentioned were Major M. E. Cobb, Jones, Whitney, Captains Dukely, Bouze, Gray, Curt Hickey, McCarthy, Latimer, Moore and Col. J. D. Barroll.

The dedication committee was composed of Capt. Guilford, Lieut. Daniels, Lieut. Coulter, Sergt. Randall, Sergt. Donnelly, Corporals McCabe, Randall and Wentworth, with Col. A. C. Warren, Col. R. B. Edes, Major F. B. Barnes, Hon. H. F. Bothfield and Mr. L. R. Spear of the Veteran Association as associates. The floor marshal was Sergt. A. H. Randall.

Governor Foss was the guest of honor at a dinner given by Mr. Lewis R. Spear, president of the Claffin Guard Veteran Association at the Newton Club, just previous to the dedication exercises. The governor was escorted by his staff, Brig. Gen. Gardner W. Pearson, Adjutant General of the Commonwealth, Col. P. Frank Packard, Majors William H. Perry, Curtis D. Noyes, Arthur Blake, Thomas L. Walsh, Robert E. Green, Capt. Stuart W. Wise, Lieutenants Herbert P. Ward, N. J. Smith, Harry D. Crowley and Joseph W. Bartlett. Among others present were Mayor Hatfield, Brig. Gen. James G. C, Mr. W. J. Follett, Mr. Reuben Fournall, Col. W. E. Lombard and Col. Robert Ball Edes.

The guests were seated at an immense round table, in the centre of which was a beautiful basket of pink roses and pink sweet peas surrounded by candelabra with pink shades. An excellent menu was served under the direction of the steward of the club, Mr. George A. Mead.

An interesting incident prior to the dinner was the introduction of Governor Foss and Mayor Hatfield, it being the first time they had ever met.

The new armory, which was completed last month, is the latest pattern of a one company first-class armory. There are two centre towers, with battlements, where the staffs are located for the United States and the state flags.

The building, which is of brick with granite finishings, is 94 feet 6 inches wide, and the entire length, including the turrets is 180 feet, 4 inches, covering about an acre and a quarter in area.

The drill hall is 120 feet long and 80 feet wide. At one end is a stage 15 feet by 50 feet.

Mr. Caleb Francis Eddy, for 44 years a resident of West Newton and one of the best known business men in the city, died last Monday at his home on Cherry street, after an illness of nearly a year. Mr. Eddy was born in Amherst in 1836 and was married in 1860 in Fall River to Miss Georgianna Winslow. He removed to Newton in 1867 and for many years had been engaged in the coal, wood, hay and grain business. He was a member of the Second Congregational church and of the Brae Burn Country Club. In 1877 he represented ward three in the Common Council.

He is survived by a widow, seven daughters and five sons.

Funeral services were held from his late home on Cherry street Wednesday afternoon. Among the many friends present were a number of Mr. Eddy's associates in the Chamber of Commerce and representatives of the parish of the Congregational church. The services were in charge of the pastor, Rev. J. Edgar Park, who offered prayer, read from the Scriptures and delivered a short eulogy. A tribute was also paid by Rev. Theodore P. Prudden of Brookline, who was formerly pastor of the church. The burial was in Newton Cemetery. The pallbearers were Dr. Samuel Breck of Boston, Robert Dean of Fall River, Henry Parsons of New York city and Dr. Thomas Amy of Boston.

WINS INDOOR MEET

The sixth annual indoor meet of the Preparatory league was held in the drill hall at Newtonville Saturday evening, and although the league only consists of Newton and Cambridge Latin, Brookline dropping out because it did not want to compete on the Newton floor, the meet proved to be a success.

W. Adams of the Newton team was easily the best point winner for the school, coming in second in the 30-yard dash, winning the 300-yard run and the 30-yard hurdles and being a member of the victorious relay team. In the 30-yard hurdles he equaled the record made by W. Clancy of Newton last year, his time being 4 seconds.

W. Glennon of Cambridge received a severe shaking up while engaged in running the 30-yard dash, falling at the finish line and striking a seat.

Newton secured 53 points, while Cambridge was only able to make 10. The only event in which Cambridge defeated Newton was in the shotput, R. Cowan throwing the shot 40 feet 6 3/4 inches. The summary:

Thirty-yard dash—Won by F. Fripp, Adams second, Raymond third. Time 3 3/5.

1000-yard run—Won by Tucker, MacLure second, MacVicar third. Time 2m, 37s.

High jump—Won by Nash, Fathie second, Mahn third. Height 5ft 2 3/4 in.

300-yard run—Won by Adams, MacNeil second, Van Buskirk third. Time 39s.

Shotput—Won by Cowan, Cady second, Putnam third. Distance 40ft 6 3/4 in.

600-yard run—Won by Rider, Whitney second, Quincy third. Time 26 4/5.

Thirty-yard hurdles—Won by Adams, Hickox second, Toulon third. Time 4 1/5.

Relay race—Won by Newton (Adams, Tucker, MacLure and Rider). Time 2m, 32 2/5.

INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGYINTERESTING FACTS TO MANY NEWTON MEN

In view of the unanimous favorable report of the committee on Education of the Legislature on the matter of granting the Massachusetts Institute of Technology $100,000 a year for the next ten years, the following statement of the work of the Institute will be of interest.

Thirty-three hundred alumni of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology reside in this state, most of them actively engaged in its industries; many of them filling positions of large responsibility. The Institute has over 1500 students, of whom about 850 are citizens of Massachusetts. This may easily give an erroneous impression in regard to the industrial efficiency and financial strength of the alumni. Since the earliest class was graduated forty-two years ago it might be supposed that a still larger number of graduates than is actually the case would now occupy conspicuous positions in the industrial and financial world. The factor which is easily overlooked in this connection is the rapid increase in the size of the classes and the consequent low average age of the graduates. The total number of graduates (bachelors of science) up to 1909 inclusive was 4,318, of whom 4,107 were living. Of these more than half have received their degrees during the ten years, 1900-1909. The average length of time for all graduates since graduation is only a little more than eleven years. Taking twenty-three as the average age at graduation, the average age of all the graduates would thus be only thirty-four and a fraction. The men who have been out as many as twenty years, with corresponding opportunity for achievement, number only about 550.

It speaks well for the character and efficiency of the instruction at Tech that in spite of the comparatively short time which has elapsed since their graduation so many of its alumni have nevertheless achieved such marked success in their varied pursuits.

Possibly the best way of demonstrating the value of Tech to the community is to give the records of the state scholarship students.

Twenty state scholarships were established at the Institute by act of legislature in 1888, on the basis of an appropriation of $100,000, only ten being actually available in 1888-'89. In 1895 the number was increased to thirty, and the next year to forty by an annual appropriation of 4000 for the additional twenty.

The award of these scholarships has always been made by the state board of education on the basis of residence of the applicants, with due consideration of their need and merit. At first the demand for them was not greatly in excess of the supply. Of late years, however, the number of applicants has been so large that it has been the policy of the board to divide each scholarship in halves, leaving the applicant to bear the remainder unless assisted from other sources.

A review of the records shows that 412 persons had received state scholarships from their establishment up to and including the class of 1909, the average aggregate grant per student being thus about $315. Of these 325—nearly eighty per cent.—have graduated; thirteen have died; of the remainder, 161 are residents of Massachusetts, most of them actively engaged in its industries. Of those in Massachusetts fifteen are in service of great engineering corporations, as the General Electric company, the Telephone and Telegraph company, the Fore River Shipbuilding company, etc.; eighteen are engineers; seven, architects; eight chemists; two, teachers; three, lawyers; nine are in the service of state commissions; five are superintendents in manufacturing; five are managers; two, treasurers, and one a president; twenty-three are connected with the Institute, mainly as members of its faculty.

Without mentioning names of individuals the list of former state scholars includes, for example, the assistant director of one of the most important research laboratories in the country, a professor of civil engineering in China, a superintendent of a great manufacturing establishment near Boston, the manager of an important manufacturing company in Scotland, the water-supply engineers of two of the larger cities of the United States, a leading civil engineer of Boston, a president of a great engineering corporation, and of a Canadian technical college.

It is difficult to see how the bounty of the state could have been used with greater advantage to its recipients or to the state.

When one investigates the entire body of the alumni it appears that the Institute has trained a number of men who are now in the very front rank of science, men who have extended far the boundaries of knowledge and thereby gained a world-wide fame. In addition to this its former students are to be found in positions of power and responsibility in every state of the Union, engaged in the work of developing mines, opening up the country by means of railroads, applying scientific methods to the great problems of transportation, power production and distribution, advancing chemical industries, conserving the public health, and contributing in countless other ways to the increase of the nation's wealth. These men have not come exclusively from any particular class, rich or poor, but the greater number are men whose capital is their character and their power; they have been drawn from a source to which the state naturally looks for new energy, new enthusiasm, and the power to cope successfully with new conditions.

In Massachusetts we are, perhaps, too near the Institute to have a proper perspective of its importance, but there is no lack of impartial testimony to guide us to the truth. Sir William Mather, after a study of the leading schools of the kind in the world, held it up as the best model for his own country. Speaking in London of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology he said: "The spirit and energy of the students, their conspicuous practical knowledge, the thoroughness with which their scientific knowledge is tested in the course of instruction, and the power of adaptation and resource they possess on entering workshops and manufacturing, railroads, or mines, public works, and constructive engineering—all these fruits of the training of this Institute are, so far as I have seen, not equaled on the continent. I think these are the qualities we need in England." For years the Institute has been visited by distinguished bands of engineers and educators from various parts of the world and reports to governments or societies in England, France, Germany, Switzerland, Russia, Spain, and Japan set forth in flattering terms the high esteem in which the Institute is held abroad. At home it has been subjected to the sincerest form of flattery—imitation—its methods being copied in almost every similar institution throughout the country. Its graduates are eagerly sought for everywhere, and the prestige of the Institute is of the highest order.

Fifty years ago when the Institute was founded much argument was needed to demonstrate that higher technical education was one of the great factors of industrial growth. Now that science has completely revolutionized the conditions of industrial and commercial life the question is no longer debatable. It is generally conceded that Germany's wonderful rise in the scale of commercial nations is mainly due to her steady and business efforts to promote the higher forms of technical education. Her success has been an impressive object lesson to the world, a lesson that this country, and in particular this state, cannot afford to ignore. That Massachusetts should attach special importance to technical education was clearly recognized by the committee on education in its report to the legislature that laid in a practical way, the foundations of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Wisely was it set forth in the constitution of the commonwealth that "it shall be the duty of the legislature in all future periods of its commonwealth to cherish the interest of the sciences and to encourage private societies and public institutions for the promotion of agriculture, arts, sciences, trades, and manufactures."
